Truman Asks U.S. 'Eat Less Bread'

By WILLIAM UMSTEAD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (INS)—President Truman called upon the nation today to eat less Bread and reduce waste in food consumption to bring down high prices and enable America to feed starvation-threatened foreign countries. The chief executive told his special emergency Citi-

NEW CONSUL — Joseph F. Shields has assumed the post of Irish Consul at Boston, to fill the vacancy created by the transfer of Patrick J. Hughes to San Francisco. The new consul comes here from New York and is accompanied by his wife, a native of New Haven, Ct., and their four children.

down and help hungry people in other countries at the same time."

Mr. Truman said 100,000,000 bushels of grain must, as a minimum goal, be saved by the American people. He stressed the point that only part of the saving can come from serving fewer slives of bread. He said the greater part must be saved out of grain fed to livestock.

Meanwhile, it was learned from White House sources that the committee headed by 38-year-old Charles Luckman is expected to ask:

1—Meatless Tuesdays.

2—Eggless and poultryless Thursdays.

3—Utmost conservation of wheat.

4—A voluntary holiday on grain use by distillers.

In a return to wartime practice, the committee also is expected to ask the nation's housewives to reduce waste to the absolute minimum and will assign boy scouts to "police the garbage cans."

CUT IN DEMAND

The President told the food committee that strict conservation of edibles should "bring down some food prices, and hence reduce the cost o fliving" by cutting down the demand for certain foods.

He declared that the European food crisis must be dealt with "quickl yand decisively."

Mr. Truman made it emphatically clear that food conservation must be achieved through equitable sharing by all Americans and "not by increasing prices so that the brunt of the sacrifice will be borne by those least able to buy food."

The President said much depends "upon the voluntary rationing program being formulated by the food committee," for success in saving food.

The committee's voluntary program was to be made public later today.

Mr. Truman added:

"There will be more than enough food in the United States to go around, provided it is fairly distributed. Excessive prices, however, result in unfair distribution.

HARDSHIP PRICES

"Already increasing prices are bringing hardship to millions of Americans of low or moderate income. Failure to check price increases promptly will not only lower the American living standard, but could impair the confidence of busines, and thus jeopardize the splendid record we have achieved in the maintenance of high employment, high production and general prosperity.

"We must get prices down ad help hungry people in other countries at the same time."

Charles Luckman, chairman of the Food Conservation Committee, responded to the President's talk by declaring that his group had received "thousands of letters" from individual citizens offering their support of a food conservation program. Luckman declared:

"We believe with all our hearts in these American people and in what I think we should acknowledge to be their God-given ability to lick any problem, once the facts have been placed before them fairly and squarely."

UN Council Vote Deadlock Still Unbroken

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—The United Nations Assembly failed in its first effort today to break the deadlock in the race between the Soviet Ukraine and India for the Security Council seat to be vacated by Poland Dec. 31.

The first secret vote of the 57 nations today, after seven indecisive ballots yesterday, showed:

Ukraine 31, India 23. A two-thirds majority of those present and voting—36 votes—was required for election.

Red Gazette Turns Attack on British

MOSCOW, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Literary Gazette, which last month compared President Truman to Hitler and provoked a U. S. protest, turned today on Winston Churchill, Ernest Bevin and Hector McNeil of Britain.

The Gazette published two two-column caricatures, one depicting a cigar smoking man who might have been any one of the Britons, or a composite of the three. The other represented a bulldog smoking a cigar.

The spread was captioned "Friends," and said, "Two friends are clearly pictured. The faces and speeches are alike. It is not necessary to speak of Churchill; McNeil is shouting and Bevin, too."

59-Yr. Record For Cold Tied; 20's Tonight

Fall, which rushed into the Hub before summer could gracefully withdraw, was threatened with untimely displacement by Old Man Winter today as the weatherman predicted temperatures as low as the upper 20's tonight in the interior suburbs of the city.

The center of the city will fare somewhat better, he said, with the temperature hovering in the middle 30's. A 59-year-old record had already been tied early this morning when the mercury plummeted to 38 as a minimum reading.

His prediction was widespread frost tonight, but fair and somewhat warmer tomorrow when the present brisk northwest winds are expected to die away.

2500 N. H. Shoe Workers Strike

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 1 (AP)—Although their union settled a wage dispute with the International Shoe Co. last night in St. Louis, 2500 members of the United Shoe Workers of America (CIO) carried out strike plans and quit at 7 a. m. today in four New Hampshire communities.

A. R. Holden, company industrial relations director here, said the walkout forced shutdowns in three plants here and branches at Nashua, Claremont and Newport.

Picket lines were thrown up at each of the plants, but there was no disorder. Nonunion maintenance workers were permitted to enter the factories.

SUES FOR DIVORCE—A divorce action has been brought against actor Jess Barker in Los Angeles court by screen actress Susan Hayward (above). She charges cruelty. The star also seeks custody of their two-year-old twin sons.

Flaksman to Head Boxing Commission

Governor Bradford at an Executive Council meeting aboard the U. S. S. Constitution at the Navy Yard today nominated Samuel M. Flaksman of Cambridge to be the Boxing Commissioner of Massachusetts.

Flaksman, a Boston University graduate, attorney and manager of professional pugilists for a number of years, would succeed Comr. Albert F. "Ziggy" Sears, whose term has expired.

Among 14 other appointments made by the Governor at the meeting in the ward room on historic "Old Ironsides" was that of Henry W. Parkman to be a member of the new Metropolitan Transit Authority. Parkman, former Republican senator, Boston corporation counsel and lately political advisor to the United States military government in Gerfmany would succeed Edward E. Whiting, resigned.

Frederick W. Bliss, of Wakefield, an official of eGneral Electric, was appointed a member of the tSate Labor Board, succeeding Frank D. Babcock, of Haverhill, whose term expired.

QUINCY WOMAN NAMED

Mrs. Emma S. Tousant of Quincy was appointed a member of the Department of Industrial Accidents.

The Governor also appointed Joseph K. Collins, attorney and nephew of Superior Court Judge Walter L. Collins to be Boston Finance Commissioner to succeed Comr. Frederick E. Roche, whose ter mexpired. Collins served as assistant Attorney-General from 1941 to 1945. He is a prominent Boston lawyer.

Other appointments included:

Atty. Herbert D. Robinson of Walpole to become just tice of the district court of western Norfolk County to succeed Judge Albert Saunders, retired.

Mrs. Elisabeth M. Herlihy of Boston as a member of the State Planning Board.

OTHER APPOINTMENTS

David S. Williams of Concord to be clerk of the Central Middlesex County District Court, to succeed Edward F. Laughlin, resigned.

Dr. Frederick Tudor of Milton as associate medical examiner, Third Norfolk County District, succeeding Dr. George Higgins, deceased.

William P. Wharton, of Groton, reappointed to the State Forestry Committee.

Amico J. Barone of Chicopee, press secretary of the governor, to be executive director of the Massachusetts Development and Industrial Commission.

Bernard J. "Cap" Doherty, secretary of the commission, has submitted his resignation but the council took no action on it.

The meeting was held aboard the historic ship at the suggestion of Councilor Patrick J. McDonough, South Boston, in line with Gov. Bradford's policy of honoring each member of his executive council by foregathering in their respective districts.

Gov. Bradford and the council were greeted at the ship's gangway by Rear Adm. Morton L. Deyo, commandant of the First Naval District, and saluted by an honor guard of Marines.

The Weather

LOCAL—Clear and continued cool with frost tonight. Lowest temperatures in the middle 30's in downtown Boston and in upper 20's in interior suburbs. Thursday fair and warmer. Diminishing northwest winds becoming gentle tonight.

Vet's Willed Eyes Give 2 New Vision

A Norwood woman more than 70 years old and a Lowell youth in his teens, both of whom had been doomed to blindness, will walk out of St. John's Hospital, Lowell, in 17 days, each with a sound eye bequeathed to them by a World War II hero who will be lowered to his grave tomorrow.

The cornea-grafting operations, performed one after the other Monday night by Dr. Brendan Leahy, Lowell specialist, were not only successful but fulfilled a long agreed pact between the war veteran and his wife.

Dr. Leahy is keeping secret the identities of his two patients until they leave the hospital but the name of the benefactor he gave to the world.

UNAWARE DEATH NEAR

The veteran who will be carried eyeless to his burial tomorrow was Edward J. Bacher, 30, of Sutton st., North Andover, a bemedalled soldier who saw combat in Europe and Africa.

He died Monday morning at his home, unaware death was near. His wife, Dorothy, 25, who had known he was to die, acted according to plans carefully prepared. She telephoned their physician.

Bacher's body was moved to Lawrence General Hospital where Dr. John Barry removed the eyes. They were rushed by the Red Cross, again according to plan, to St. John's Hospital in Lowell.

There, within hours, Dr. Leahy had grafted the corneas onto the eye balls of his two patients.

PATIENTS FEELING FINE

Today he reported they assured him they felt "fine" and he expressed confidence they would be sent to their homes in 17 days.

The war veteran's home was filled with flowers today. Near them sat his widow. She explained her husband had suffered long from a stomach cancer of which he had been kept unaware. He thought it was "indigestion," but it had rendered him ill for many months.

"Long ago," she related, "we had read an article about the wonderful work being done by eye banks. My husband told me then if anything ever happened to him he wanted his eyes to be used in that cause.

"When the doctor told me there was no hope I went to the Eye Bank at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston and signed the necessary papers.

"I know if Edward could realize his gift had been carried out he would be very happy."

MILITARY FUNERAL

Bacher will be given a military funeral with a solemn requiem mass at St. Michael's Church, North Andover at 9 o'clock with the Rev. John O'Connor as celebrant.

Officials at the Eye Bank disclosed they have supplied a total of 18 eyes for cornea-grafting operations since the bank began functioning last March.

Now, they have 21 persons waiting for the miracle of renewed vision through the same type of operation, a spokesman said.

The North Andover veterans' eyes were allotted to Dr. Leahy's patients because it was his "turn," as a surgeon who had made the request, to be supplied.

SEEKS FREEDOM—Latest Hollywood marriage to go on the rocks is that of attractive Susan Hayward and actor Jess Barker, parents of twin sons, Timothy and Gregory, 2. She appeared in Los Angeles court and filed divorce action, saying she suffered "grievous mental cruelty."

Rita Hayworth Files Divorce Suit

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1 (AP)—Rita Hayworth finally filed her long-promised divorce suit today against Orson Welles the one-time "boy genius." In a second action involving Hollywood personalities veteran producer David Wark Griffith, 72, was sued for divorce by his wife, the former Evelyn Marjorie Baldwin, half his age.

Miss Hayworth 27, made a simple charge of cruelty against Welles, 31. They have a daughter, Rebecca, now 2.

Griffith, pioneer movie figure, and his 36-year-old wife were married 11 years ago. She also charged cruelty.

IDENTIFIES SUSPECT—Grasping a blue shirt which police claim was doffed by John S. Lewis, 25 (left), as he ran to escape, Mrs. Florence Lundblad, of Los Angeles, identifies the youth as the thief who slugged her and snatched her pocketbook. He was found hiding in a closet of a vacant house. Woman, who had watched flight, tipped police on his hiding place.

So. End Man Guilty in False Alarm Spree

Ralph Cody, 26, of Arlington st., South End, appealed to Judge Elijah Adlow in municipal court today for aid in adding up the three two-month sentences and two one-month sentences imposed on him by the jurist and then appealed.

Cody was arraigned on three charges of ringing false alarms in the South End area early today and two charges of malicious destruction of property. He was found guilty of all charges and pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness.

The defendant was arrested as a result of the courage of Miss Frankie Cylatt of Holyoke st., South End. She testified she looked out a window of her home and saw a man she identified as Cody smashing the windows of her car and the windows of another car.

She ran down stairs and pursued Cody in her car until she met Patrolman Warren Blair who arrested the man.

Under questioning Cody admitted he had also rung in three false alarms in the South End district before his arrest.

Milk Now 22 Cents, Price War Predicted

The retail price of milk went up a cent today reaching an all-time high of 22 cents a quart in Massachusetts. A milk price-war appeared in prospect as the Massachusetts Restaurant Ass'n prepared a campaign to battle the jump in costs.

The cent-a-quart increase became effective despite an injunction which the restaurant association obtained to restrain the State Milk Control Board from fixing minimum prices—a power that board chairman Roger F. Clapp admitted it does not have.

John W. Stokes, spokesman for the restaurateurs, said his group would hold a mass meeting in Boston Monday to plan its campaign. One of the issues, he said, was a proposal "to minimize the use of milk."

"We want to destroy forever the myth fostered by dealers that the prices have been fixed by the State Milk Control Board," Stokes said.

NO BAR TO PRICE RAISE

Chairman Clapp stated that the court order against the board did not prevent dealers from charging the new prices which became effective after the Federal Marketing Administrator authorized an increase of 44 cents per hundredweight to farmers—the approximate equivalent of a cent a quart.

"The court order means only that the question of prices is up to the dealers," Clapp said. "We have not set a price. The dealers can charge anything a consumer is willing to pay. There never has been a ceiling price on milk in Massachusetts."

PRICE-WAR LOOMS

The possibility that some dealers might sell under the 22-cent-a-quart price was admitted by a spokesman for one large firm.

Stokes contended that "you now can bargain with your milk dealer on a price the same as you can for any other product." He added:

"We want to end this practice of minimum prices. If there is any move to set them by dealers, I am sure the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice will investigate."

The jump in milk prices also became effective today in New York, where it reached a record high of 20 cents a quart.

SWEDISH SUBMARINE SAFE

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 1 (AP)—Fears for safety of the Swedish submarine Draken, overdue after test runs off Goteborg, were relieved today when authorities established radio contact with the vessel.

4 TWINS IN YEAR SPUR HOUSE HUNT

MRS. HARRY C. SHERWOOD

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Sherwood, parents of two sets of twin daughters in less than a year, were confronted today with a mounting list of problems that far outnumbered the babies.

The 23-year-old mother solved one of them by naming the new babies, born to her Monday night, Donna Jane and Diane Jean. The first twins, Patricia and Pamela Ann, will be a year old Saturday.

"That's four babies," she said, "but the first three months are the hardest—I know."

The father, 24, who earns $41 a week as a clerk with the Veterans' Administration, was conducting a desperate search for larger quarters to replace the three-room efficiency apartment they share with an aunt.

The young couple reported there were twins—"lots of them"—on both sides of the family.

7000 Holy Name Delegates Gather for Opening Events

With 7000 delegates representing 3,500,000 members present, the fourth national convention of the Holy Name Society opens in Boston today, attended by the largest number of clergy and laity in the history of the organization.

The first meeting of delegates of this 673-year-old society will be held at 4 p. m. when the resolutions committee holds its session. The official opening is scheduled for 8 tonight at Parkman bandstand.

There Mayor Hynes will officially welcome the delegates in civic exercises which will include a two-hour band concert.

The formal opening of the convention takes place tomorrow at the Cathedral at 10 a. m. when Most Rev. Amleto Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States, will celebrate a solemn pontifical mass.

Business sessions of the convention—which will be highlighted Friday night with a candlelight Holy Hour at Braves Field which more than 50,000 members will attend, and climaxed by a parade of 100,000 on Sunday—will be held tomorrow, Friday and Saturday at the Opera House.

A meeting to which the general public is invited, and at which awards will be made to laymen for distinguished service to the society, will be held tomorrow night at 8:30 at the Boston Arena.

The Holy Hour Friday night will be a spectacle unique in the colorful ceremonies of the church. When the Holy Hour begins at 8:30, all lights in the field will be extinguished and the light of 60,000 candles, held by the worshippers, will illumine the scene.

Sunday's parade, too, will be unique in that it will see the largest number of marchers, all men, that the city has ever witnessed.

There will be 99 bands in the line of march, and nearly 100 floats depicting historical and religious events in the history of the archdiocese.

Abp. Cushing himself, under whose auspices the convention is assembled, will march at the head of the parade to the reviewing stand at the Public Garden, where he will be joined by city and state officials.

Representatives from Canada, Australia and New Zealand will be present, as well as several Holy Name groups from the armed services.

Woman Aide Brands Hitler 'Worst Informed in Europe'

NUERNBERG, Germany, Oct. 1 (AP)—Adolf Hitler was the "worst informed man in Europe." This blunt appraisal of the Fuehrer was made by his own secretary, lantern-jawed Johanna Wolf, who at 50 still bears the countenance the Nazis thought the ideal German woman.

Wedded to her work in the Nazi party for many years, Fraulein Wolf still doesn't know what happened to crash down her house of cards.

U. S. prosecutors have no interest in her as a defendant. They are holding her only as a witness.

The German denazification court, well aware of her gold party badge, will have the last say about her future.

WOULDN'T LISTEN

Her slant on Hitler is a first-hand one. She worked as secretary to him and before that to Deputy Fuehrer Rudolf Hess, now serving life.

She is inclined even yet to give Hitler the best of it in her appraisals except for his knowledge—or rather lack of it.

Fraulein Wolf told interrogators it was amazing how little the Fuehrer really knew. After he became all-powerful his supply of knowledge stopped because he wouldn't listen to anyone.

That probably explains Hitler's insane idea that Germany was strong enough to push over Russia, Britain and the U. S. rolled into one.

The secretary likens Hitler to an old legend in German history. It is the story, she said, of the man who strode to the edge of Lake Constance and kept walking.

FEARED RUSSIANS

"He didn't sink," she said. "No one had told him it was water."

That's how she explains Hitler's early successes. No one told him—or could—that he was walking dengerously on water. In sublime ignorance he made it, for a while.

Fraulein Wolf said she last saw Hitler in Berlin the night of April 20 or 21, 1945. At that time she heard Eva Braun say she wanted to die with the Fuehrer. Hitler made it plain, she said, that he did not want to be captured by the Russians.

"That's all he said," she asserted.

She said she joined the party in 1929, and in 1938 Hitler awarded her the gold party badge. At the same time, she said, the Fuehrer bestowed the same decoration on Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, his adjutant who served as consul general in San Francisco.

Wives Ask Full Sick Pay for Cops

The seven members of the legislative committee of the Boston Police Wives Ass'n today urged Mayor Hynes to sign the 1947 Senate Bill 113, authorizing the city to grant its police 15 days annual sick leave at full pay.

Headed by Mrs. Katherine Tobin, Dorchester, the women said other city employes are given such sick leave with police allowed only half-pay for 60 days. No drain on the municipal budget would be involved, they said, since members of the police force are paid out of a yearly approriation.

Two police officers, the committee said, died recently from neglect of minor illnesses after remaining on duty because they could not afford to take only half-pay.

Hynes said he would consult city officials before rendering his decision.

2 More Jewish Ships Under Watch

LONDON, Oct. 1 (INS)—A spokesman for the British foreign office announced today that the two shiploads of unauthorized Jewish immigrants now en route to Palestine are east of Crete under surveillance of the Royal Navy.

The Paducah and the Northlands, with 3850 Jews aboard, had been expected in Holy Land waters sometime today, but were reported delayed by attempts to reship the refugees to lesser craft to prevent British confiscation of the larger ships.

Two other ships in the Black sea, and in the Mediterranean are also suspected of carrying refugees and are being watched.

French Execute 5 Collaborationists

Paris, Oct. 1 (AP)—Expecting resistance, three jui-jitsu experts accompanied authorities who brought five convicted collaborationists to the execution stake in Fort De Montrouge Prison this morning.

All died calmly, however, except Paul Charbonnier, who fainted and was carried on a stretcher. He faced the firing squad seated in a chair. Christian Masuy, leader of the group, was known for use of the water torture on French prisoners.

Student Killed, 4 Hurt in Crash

Two of four students of the Norfolk County Agricultural School at Walpole, injured in the crash of their car on Route 1-A, Walpole, which cost the life of a fellow student, were reported in critical condition today at Norwood Hospital.

The two are David Cook, 16, of Luzon st., Needham, who suffered a fractured skull, and Edward Wheeler, Jr., 14, of Winthrop st., East Dedham, fractured skull and internal injuries.

The dead student was George Rein, 17, of Foster st., Avon, who died of a fractured skull an hour after being taken to the hospital.

Less seriously injured were James Henderson, 15, of High st., Westwood, with lacerations and a scalp wound, and Robert Smith, 17, of Bonney st., Westwood, lacerated scalp.

Youth Freed in Loew Theft Bound Over in Dope Sale

David C. Amaral, 23, of Carver st., South End, freed on a larceny charge a month ago on the plea of his victim, Mrs. Sonya Loew, wife of E. M. Loew, theater magnate, was today ordered held for the grand jury with two other defendants after the trio pleaded not guilty in municipal court to narcotics charges.

Amaral, Nicholas Assad, 20, of Waltham st., South End, and Frank Falzone of Revere st., Revere, were held on bonds of $1500 each for unlawful sale of marijuana cigarets. The latter two were also charged with illegal possession of narcotics.

In the hearing before Judge Adlow, it was brought out that 34 of the 37 cigarets seized by the police were made of cat-nip.

Amaral denied that he was involved in the sale. He testified that Anthony Gallina, of Ash st., South End, had pleaded with him for some weeks to procure the marijuana. Amaral said he finally introduced Gallina to Assad and they arranged for the sale to take place in a downtown hotel lobby.

The defendant said the package was passed from Assad to Gallina.

Although Mrs. Loew refused to come to Amaral's aid this time, the Rev. Samuel Tyler, assistant rector of Trinity Church, who aided him before was again in court and tesified he had Amaral examined by a psychiatrist.

On Aug. 29, Amaral was put on probation after being charged with looting Mrs. Loew's car in the theater district. She appeared in court and pleaded for the youth and at that time found employment for him with one of her husband's business enterprises.

Salem WAVE Tells of Brutal Attack Beating

LAWRENCE, Oct. 1—Richard Z. Wysocki, 20, Essex st., Salem, went on trial in Superior Court here today on a charge of assault with aattempt to attack Miss Mary K. Olney, 22, Clifton st., Salem, ex-WAVE, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Austin L. Olney of the University of New Hampshire.

The assault in which the pretty blonde girl suffered a broken arm, hemorrhages of both eyes, two broken ear drums and multiple body bruises occurred the night of June 26, 1947 in Forest River Park, Salem.

Under direct examination by Asst. Dist. Atty. John A. Ryan, Jr., Miss Olney told Judge Raoul H. Boudreau and a jury the following account of the incident:

She was seated in a car with Karl Kirchner, New York, a veteran student at M. I. T., when a man stepped to the car and flashed what she took to be a gun. He struck Kirchner, ordered them both out of the car, said it was a holdup and he wanted Kirchner's car because the one he had was "hot."

He forced her into the rear seat and drove off along the park road while she pulled at his hair. When the car ran off the road, she leaped out, but he caught her twice and beat her savagely both times.

"He said he was going to attack me as I had never been attacked before," she stated.

Meeanwhile, Kirchner had recovered from the effects of the blows he had suffered and had reached a house from which he telephoned police.

When the cruiser came roaring up tehpark road, its headlights caught the man struggling with the girl. The man ran off into the darkness. Later that same night, police arrested Wysocki.

Hub Area Parking Trial Ban Begins

Under an appeal that all motorists co-operate, the Massachusetts Safety Council's new no-parking plan for arterial highways during rush hours went into effect today in Boston and nine nearby communities.

Originally scheduled for a 60-day tryout in 13 cities and towns, the plan struck a partial snag when Malden and Watertown declined to join the drive—because of business reasons—and Arlington voted to participate only in part.

Those who joined Boston for the trial period are Brookline, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Medford, Melrose, Revere, Somerville and Wakefield.

Under the plan's provision, all parking is banned from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m. on the right hand side of the main arteries inbound for Boston, while the same ban goes into effect for outbound traffic on the right hand side from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Carrier Coral Sea Commissioned

PORTSMOUTH, Va., Oct. 1 (AP)—The United States is determined to resist aggression Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan asserted today at commissioning ceremonies for the $90,000,000 aircraft carrier Coral Sea.

Last of three huge 45,000-ton flattops laid down during the war, the Coral Sea has been more than three years under construction.

Railroad Brotherhoods Ask 30 P. C. Wage Boost

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—A formal demand for a 30 per cent wage increase for more than 350,000 members of five operating railroad brotherhoods has been made by the unions on the nation's carriers.

Voting Machine Bids Opened

The Boston Election Commission today opened sealed bids from two companies for the purchase of 500 voting machines by the city for use in the rPesidential primary of 1948 and thereafter.

The Shoup Voting Machine Corp, of Canton, O., submitted a bid of $1336 apiece for manually and electrically operated machines, freight prepaid. Delivery would start on or before Jan. 1, 1948 and be completed 45 days prior to the primary.

The Automatic oVting Machine Corp. of Jamestown, N. Y., bid $1199 apiece for manually controlled machines, plus $50 for electrical operation, and $15 for delivery. They promised delivery by April 1, 1948 if "not delayed by strikes or war or other unforeseen obstacles." The bids were taken under advisement.

Judge Wilson Raps Collusion Divorces

For the fifth time in recent months, Judge Robert G. Wilson, Jr., today delivered a probate court bench criticism of arrangements whereby willing defendants in divorce actions obligingly go to the sheriff's office to be served with notices of the actions brought against them.

In granting a divorce for cruelty to Herbert Silver, Arlington st., West Newton, the jurist said:

"It will not be long now before I just say nothing until the case is finished and then deny it because of collusion."

At the outset of hearing Silver's petition against Mrs. Margaret Ruth Silver it was brought out Mrs. Silver had been served in the office of Sheriff Frederick W. Sullivan.

"It sounds like collusion," said Judge Wilson. "We are having too many of these cases." He asked the identifying witness at the service, George H. Ferris, Joyce rd., Waltham: "Tell me how the service was engineered?"

"Mr. Silver asked me to go up there," replied Ferris.

Silver testified his wife hit him on the head with a phonograph record, stuck a pair of scissors against his stomach and jabbed him with a pin.

"Ever take a punch at her?" asked the court.

"No."

"Why not?"

Prepare for War, Tito Urges Slavs

BELGRADE, Oct. 1 (AP)—Premier Marshal Tito called on Yugoslav veterans in a speech yesterday "to be prepared at all times, if necessary, to take up arms and fight again."

"We are working as if there will be peace for 100 or 500 years, but let us prepare ourselves as if there will be war tomorrow," Tito declared.

Tito described the Truman Doctrine as "nothing else than the creation of strategic bases in Europe and other parts of the world for the encirclement of the Soviet Union and other generally democratic easter states."

The "western imperialist front," he continued, "wanted to impose upon Yugoslavia through the United Nations some decisions which would be humiliating for our people and for other Balkan countries."

Entire British Village Auctioned

LONDON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The picturesque 600-year-old village of Castle Combe in Wiltshire was sold at auction yesterday, police station, inns, cottages and all, and hardly a tear was shed.

Most of the lovely old Cotswold cottages were bought by people whose families had lived in them for generations. The manor house with 11 bedrooms and four baths, was withdrawn because nobody would offer 14,000 pounds ($56,000). Its owner, Mrs. G. G. Maurice said she was forced to sell the village because of taxation.

The police station was purchased by F. C. Sutton, who said he would give the police notice to move out.

Lightning Kills Grid Player, Fells Squad

DENVER, Oct. 1. (AP)—A lightning bolt out of a cloudy sky struck in the midst of the Denver University freshman football squad yesterday, killing a 17-year-old player and knocking four others unconscious. The whole squad was knocked down.

The lightning killed Ken McCauley, Jr., son of the superintendent of schools at La Junta, Col.

Solons Denied Russian Visas Urge U. S. Ban

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—A curt refusal by Russia to let 12 senators visit Moscow brought demands by two Congress members today for a tougher policy on admitting Soviet citizens to this country.

The Soviet foreign ministry declined to issue visas either for members of the Senate appropriation committee or John Peurifoy, asst. secretary of state, to make an inspection of the U. S. embassy. The explanation to Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith was:

"Inasmuch as the USSR is not considered a country that could be made the subject of an investigation on the part of the visiting senators, we do not consider their trip to be suitable."

Sen. Bridges (R.) of New Hampshire, chairman of the committee, declared the incident raises the question of how much longer the U. S. will permit "indiscriminate admission of Soviet subjects and sympathizers."

Sen. Dworshak (R.) of Idaho, a member of the group, told a reporter there should at least be a careful scrutiny of any such admissions in the future.

"I understand there are about 1500 Russians in this country," Dworshak said. "I wonder what they are investigating."

Bridges disclosed that the individual senators applied for Russian visas during their preparations for a European trip to start next week.

Bridges said the refusal of a visa to Peurifoy "came as a distinct shock to State Dept. officials and members of Congress" because he is in charge of the operation of U. S. embassies throughout the world.

Man and Wife Build Home Of Blocks Sold for Kindling

By HAL BOYLE

BURLINGTON, Ia., Oct. 1 (AP)—E. C. Etchinson, 64, didn't let the housing shortage get him down—he went to work and single-handed built a brand new home. Neighbors call it the "Kindlelow," because it is a bungalow made from kindling.

Etchison constructed his dwelling from eight-inch square blocks sold by a local lumber yard as firewood. He and his wife were living at their daughter's home two years ago when he conceived the idea.

Materials were scarce and high-priced. The lumber yard had thousands of white pine blocks, used during the war for shipping ordnance parts. Etchison bought them for $6 to $8 a ton.

Two years and 26,000 wooden blocks later—he used 22 tons altogether—he had a three-room house, a garage, a brooder and a henhouse.

"I designed the place as I went along," said Etchison. "The only help I had was from my wife."

The Etchisons lived in the garage while "Kindlelow" was being built.

"I call it our 'dime house' because every time we got a dime we invested in another section of wall," said Mrs. Etchison.

The blocks were cemented and nailed together. Sanded, stained and varnished, they made a beautiful parquet floor. He still has a pile of several hundred blocks and plans a front and back porch and other units.

He estimates he had spent between $2000 and $3000 on the house and its buildings.

State Legion Posts Order Loyalty Oaths

More than 400 American Legion posts in Massachusetts launched a campaign today to screen and drive out members who are Communists or who support foreign ideologies opposed to the American form of government.

Copies of the new oath and obligation adopted at the Legion's national convention in New York were sent to all posts in the state by State Adjutant Coleman C. Curran. The new oath requires members to answer the question:

"Do you subscribe to the principles of any group opposed to our form of government?"

The oath and obligation taken by all American Legion members reads:

"I am not a member and do not subscribe to the principles of any group opposed to our form of government."

None by loyal American citizens will be tolerated in the legion, Adjutant Curran said. The new oath was adopted at the American Legion convention as the result of the expulsion of a member who admitted his membership in the Communist party. He has appealed this action to the New York State Supreme Court, with the legion contending that it has sole right to decide its own membership.

Bridal a la Carte Is New Business

For a modest fee, wedding specialists are offering a complete wedding, including the bridal gown and veil, the wedding cake, invitations and care of all the other details, even in these high-priced times.

The idea was born in New York City when a bride wanted a wedding with all the trimmings but just could not see her way clear to foot the heavy bills.

How the plan was worked out is subject of an interesting article in next Sunday's American Weekly, the magazine section which is a part of the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Rededication Program Wins Hub Acclaim

Approximately 200 organizations of fraternal, civic, professional, patriotic and industrial interests have accepted invitations to take part in the parades and exercises which will center on Boston Common, Oct. 12, in the windup of Rededication Week, the committee in charge announced today.

Scores of other acceptances are expected shortly, John Breen, active chairman of the committee, stated. Temporary Mayor John B. Hynes, honorary chairman, will preside at the Common program.

The paraders will converge on the Common in four lines of march, the starting points on Boylston st., Beacon Hill, outlying Beacon st. and downtown Boston.

HISTORIC TRAIN

The week-long celebration, will be featured by arrival of the Freedom Train with its invaluable historical documents, at the North Station, Oct. 11, to be welcomed by Gov. Bradford and school children. The train is to be open for public inspection there from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., then moved to the South Station Oct. 12 for inspection there.

School Supt. Gould was to meet with all public school principals today to arrange for participation of children in the Rededication Week observance.

Rev. Cornelius T. H. Sherlock, superintendent of parochial schools, is in charge of the role to be played by children under his jurisdiction.

Cong. John W. McCormack will be the principal speaker at an Advertising Club luncheon in the Hotel Statler Oct. 7. The following day Brig. Gen. Henry Parkman, Jr., and Judge Edward Hanify of superior court will speak at Faneuil Hall to the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Girl, Lynn Father of 12 Plead Guilty

A former jockey and horse trainer and the father of 12 children, Bert Clements, 57, Collins st., Lynn, pleaded guilty in Peabody District Court today to morals charges and the abduction of Marilyn Hoar, 19, Glendale ave., Peabody, a 1945 graduate of Peabody High School.

The girl, who reappeared in Lynn after being missing from home since Sept. 19 herself pleaded guilty to charges of being a stubborn child and of immoral behavior. She was immediately sentenced to an indefinite term in the women's reformatory by Judge Daniel J. Manning, who held Clements in $2000 for the January session of the grand jury.

In connection with the same case, Rupert S. Newhall, 30, Peabody, a medical technician, already held in $5000 for the same grand jury on a charge of performing illegal surgery on a young University of Vermont co-ed, who died as a result of the operation this summer, was charged with performing an abortion on the Hoar girl some time last year. He waived a reading of the charge and was held in $2000 for the grand jury.

At the same time, Mrs. Katherine M. Randall, High st., Danvers, a registered nurse and mother of two children, was charged with being an accessory after the fact of abortion. She also waived a reading of the charge and was held for the grand jury in $1000 bail.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copr. 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved

LET'S TALK ABOUT MONEY. These days, when billions of dollars are poured down bottomless ratholes, it is wise to try to understand what a dollar means. Billions, hundreds of billions, printed in figures or spelled out in words, conveys little to most of us.

So, we earn a dollar. Once upon a time, it was a silver dollar and if we had enough of them, we could get some gold pieces.

It used to be that whatever a man earned was his own, to spend, to save, to give away, to invest. Today only part of it is his; the remainder is owned by his government. In most cases, the government does not trust the earner and has its share withheld.

So the earner has his dollar less what the government has taken away. That so-called money is a receipt for his labor. He therefore knows whether he is well-off, or not, by computing the number of hours of labor it takes him to buy a pound of meat, a pound of butter, a shirt, a pair of shoes, and so on for all the commodities to which he and his family are accustomed.

If his earnings bring him less, he is doing badly no matter how many dollars he earns. If they bring him more, he is doing better. In other words, the dollar is not the criterion; what is purchasable for an hour, or a week or a year of work, is the criterion.

SOME COUNTRIES are naturally richer in commodities than others. For instance, countries like the United States, Soviet Russia, Brazil and Argentina are very well off in commodities. Other countries are poorly situated geographically and are lacking in resources.

Those who are well off ought to be able to get more for their money because what they need they have at home. Those who are badly off have to use a share of their earnings to buy what is essential from any country that has a surplus.

Such peoples have to work harder because they must produce more to exchange for what they need. Money is not exchanged; goods and services are exchanged. Money is only the symbol for calculating the items by some common denominator understood by everybody.

Thus, when Great Britain or France or Italy say that they are short of dollars, what they really mean is that they have produced too little of the goods they can export to be able to buy the goods they need.

The solution lies not in borrowing or begging dollars. It lies in producing more goods, in working harder at longer hours, so that they can exchange what they can make for what they need.

THE BRITISH, for a long time, understood the operations of money better than any other people on earth. Lacking resources, and finding it necessary to import goods in large quantities, particularly as their population and manufactures grew, they developed unusual managerial skills.

They functioned extraordinarily well as money-lenders; that is, as bankers who discovered unused reservoirs of wealth and put them to work wherever possible. The Scotch were very capable in this field; to supplement them, the British imported unusually skilled German Jews who possessed amazing knowledge of the ebb and flow of goods and services. Such persons were called financiers.

THE BRITISH have lost their skill at this art. In fact, it has become a lost art—perhaps only temporarily. And that is why the world suffers such economic confusions.

The college professors and expert economists rarely understand the workings of money, although they write voluminously about it. Few of them have ever made money work. The greatest of the moderns, John Maynard Keynes, only knew how to make money sterile. Harry Hopkins knew only how to waste it.

The present money operators in Washington are all soft, sweet gentlemen, whose hearts bleed easily, but who do not understand that money is nothing but a receipt for production.

Therefore, it is production that is reality.

"Where does the money go?"

Of course, it's exasperating to find all your money gone "just a few days after payday" . . . to wonder (and argue!) where it all went.

The simplest way to avoid this exasperation is to make sure that you spend a little less than you earn. You can make sure of that by opening a savings account and depositing a little money every payday before you do any spending.

Naturally, the place for your Savings Account is one of the sound, long-established Mutual Savings Banks. All deposits are insured in full under State law.

Three out of every four people in Massachusetts have savings accounts in these banks. Join these thrifty savers right now . . . not later than next payday!

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—A Pennsylvania economist said today the country is in a period of "abnormal prosperity which may last two years or longer" but that "we are facing a severe depression that will be followed by an enduring prosperity lasting six years or longer."

In a speech prepared for the National Stationers Ass'n's convention, Dr. Neil Carothers, dean of the School of Business at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., said:

"The cycle of wartime developments we are now experiencing will follow the pattern of World War I."

ELECTIONEERING

TIENTSIN, China, Oct. 1 (AP)—Dr. Fu Chian-Kiang's campaign for election to the National Assembly is hopping right along.

Dr. Fu bought about 300 pounds of locusts—traditional enemy of the Chinese farmer—and tied a "vote for me" campaign tag to the leg of each. Then he turned the locusts loose.

Leominster Fumes Fell Twin Girls, 9

LEOMINSTER, Oct. 1—Doris and Dorothy Leblanc, nine-year-old twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Leblanc of Fourth st., were overcome by fumes at their home today and taken to Leominster Hospital.

Dr. Charles A. Wheeler said oil stove fumes caused the girls to faint. Fire officials said oxygen in their room had been used up by a defective hot water heater.

Nerve Surgery For Peptic Ulcer

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—Dr. Lester Dragstedt, professor of surgery at the University of Chicago, said today that treatment of peptic ulcer by severing the vagus nerve had been so satisfactory that it had largely replaced all other types of surgical treatment at the university clinic.

The vagus nerve connects the stomach with the central nervous system and has been credited with stimulating gastric acidity in some individuals in moments of anxiety or nervousness.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1—Through a wreath-strewn sea and with squadrons of Army and Navy planes flying a salute overhead, the Liberty ship Honda Knot began her solemn journey from Pearl Harbor to San Francisco.

The Army transport is bringing home the bodies of 3020 men who gave their lives in World War II.

Hour-long services conducted by the five branches of the service, Army, Navy, Marine, Coast Guard, and Air Forces, paid tribute before departure to these dead which included 585 men killed in the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

In memory of those men whose bodies will never be recovered, six Navy planes dipped their wings and dropped wreaths upon the water as the Honda Knot moved out to sea.

A 21-gun salute will greet the Honda Knot as she sails through the Golden Gate Oct. 10, to anchor off Marina Park where religious ceremonies will be conducted.

Before the ship moves on to Oakland, to disembark caskets, a moment of silence will be observed at all Army and Navy installations in the area.

On Oct. 11 in the rotunda of city hall, six of the bodies, representing the five branches of services and civilians, will lie in state under a military guard of honor.

From Oakland, the bodies, first of many thousands to be brought back from all over the world, will be sent to families throughout the nation.

THE ARMY'S PROBLEM

A GROUP OF UNITED STATES ARMY officers, representative of the land and air forces at the highest level of command, made a frank and blunt analysis recently of the national dangers inherent in the failure of the current recruiting campaign to keep the armed forces of the country up to their authorized strength.

This has already become a problem of grave proportions.

If the present trend of inadequate enlistments continues it may very soon become a problem of monumental and even DISASTROUS PROPORTIONS.

Ever since the wartime conscription program expired, the Army and the Air Forces have been solely dependent upon voluntary enlistments to maintain themselves at a strength consistent with their duties of occupation abroad and national defense at home.

THE PAINFUL FACT IS THAT THE VOLUNTARY PROGRAM IS NOT ACCOMPLISHING THIS PURPOSE, AND THE ARMY IS ALREADY FAR BELOW THE MAXIMUM STRENGTH OF 1,070,000 MEN AUTHORIZED BY CONGRESS AND BOTH THE OCCUPATION FORCES ABROAD AND THE DEFENSE ESTABLISHMENTS AT HOME ARE BEING SPREAD OUT SO THIN AS TO CONSTITUTE A GRAVE PERIL TO NATIONAL PEACE AND SECURITY.

New enlistments are not even keeping pace with the normal rate of expirations and retirements.

In consequence, the Army is confronted by a grave diminishment of manpower and is dangerously approaching the point of absolute incapacity to perform the functions of national defense upon which the country relies for safety in a world situation which is getting more ominous by the hour.

Since there is little possibility of the revival of the conscription program, the urgent task the Army now faces is that of developing the enlistment campaign in proportion to the minimum needs of the armed forces.

Its only hope of success in this objective lies in impressing the necessity of the campaign upon the American people as a whole and in proving to prospective enlistees the personal advantages of military service.

As Major General Clarke L. Ruffner of the Army's Legislative and Liaison Division special staff says:

"We must put over to the public that the Army and the Air Force are THEIRS and that the two services deserve the full support of the American people."

As to the advantages of military service, the United States Army never had more to offer young Americans than it does now in pay and opportunity for an attractive and highly remunerative professional career.

The prevailing rates of Army pay compare favorably with those in many fields of civilian employment, with the added inducements of free subsistence, clothing, hospitalization and pensions, and with complete facilities for gaining proficiency in skills and trades of great value to the serviceman if he later returns to civilian life.

The Army admittedly has a difficult task in this respect, with the country so recently emerged from a great war and with millions of young men thus freed from the compulsory military service the war required.

But it is an URGENT TASK, as the Army so earnestly warns the country.

AN INVESTMENT

BOSTON COLLEGE should be eminently successful in its endeavor to raise $600,000 for a Business School building.

More than 70 per cent of the alumni of this great and growing institution are residents of Metropolitan Boston.

Their education is one of the city's biggest assets, and its beneficial effects will be felt increasingly as time passes.

A contribution to Boston College is therefore a wise and necessary investment in a better, brighter future for our whole community.

Cast the past from your thoughts away,
Think of the day that gave our love its birth
And this its sweet returning day.
Buried be all that has been done
Or say that naught is done amiss
For who the dangerous path can shun
In such a bewildering world as this?
Love can every fault forgive,
Or with a tender look reprove;
And now let naught in memory live,
That again we meet, and again we love.

WOMEN VOTERS are now in the majority in the United States. Naturally, the importance of the ballot casting of the distaff side is firmly impressed on the minds of all candidates for office. They are always trying to figure something out that will put them in right with the ladies. Here's a suggestion: Battle against the 20 per cent tax on handbags. This is a tax which the feminine portion of the population strongly resents. It is a luxury tax. The ladies say a handbag is not a luxury, but a necessity. Anyway, women voters will have a kindly feeling toward the candidate who battles against the handbag tax. If he has some other ideas they think worth-while and is a good-looking fellow, he surely will have a chance of polling a large female vote.

ASIDES: A couple of Manhattan clients have been arguing as to how to pronounce the last name of Bernard Baruch. According to Mr. Baruch, the first syllable should be pronounced as if it were spelled "Baah" and the second syllable as if spelled "rook," pronounced to rhyme with "spook" . . . "The name of Lena Horne will always be associated with the song 'Stormy Weather,'" says a contemporary. No doubt the gentleman is right. But I still think Ivy Anderson sings that song better than anybody else . . . In Brooklyn there is a club of young war widows named The Girls They Left Behind.

Bernard Baruch

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Before World War II the bricklayers in this country averaged 1500 bricks a day. Now the average is 1000. As I may have said before, if the bricklayers were paid by the brick laid, instead of by the hour, maybe it would speed up things to normal . . . That Manhattan restaurant, offering all the steaks you can eat for the price of one steak dinner, is now in operation. Sounds like quite an offer but the price of said dinner is $5. For that you should get a couple of steaks. Also the fellow whose capacity is only one steak will be likely to feel he isn't getting his money's worth.

ASKING: Queries from clients. Ever hear of a song titled, "The A. B. C. of the U. S. A."? A—I believe George M. Cohan wrote it and sang it in the "Yankee Prince." Q—Is it true the great English jockey, Fred Archer was six feet tall, but weighed only 110 pounds? A—No sir. Archer was, however, quite tall for a jockey. His height was five feet, eight and a half inches. He weighed around 112 pounds. In this country he probably would have been nicknamed "Stretch," "Hatpin" or "Stringbean," but the British turf fans contented themselves with calling him "Long Fred."

LITERARY NOTE: My old English literature professor, C. T. Winchester, was one of the best, but he never told me that Lord Byron was a cricket player at Harrow and starred in the annual Eton vs. Harrow classic on Aug. 2, 1805. I don't know of any American poet who was a star baseball player. But George Bellows, the artist, played shortstop for Ohio State University.

SIDELIGHTS: The ditty, "Cuddle Up a Little Closer," is about 40 years old, not 30, as I said. It was a featured song in the musical show "The Three Twins," which starred Bessie McCoy, the Yama Yama girl . . . In San Diego Cal., experienced taxi drivers are paid 47 per cent of the fares registered on the meter. They are guaranteed $6.50 a day. That's a living wage in San Diego if a man has a smart wife. But she has to be very smart.

PASSING BY: Duffy Lewis. Erstwhile major leaguer. One of the celebrated Red Sox outfield of Lewis, Hooper and Speaker. Many claim this the greatest major league outfield of all time. I'll still take Veach, Crawford and Cobb of the Detroit Tigers . . . Anna May Wong. Erstwhile cinema star. Have seen it reported a number of times that Anna was born in San Francisco. I believe she was born in Los Angeles. In fact, I'll bet one stogie on it.

NINE TAILORS: "It Took Nine Tailors" is the title of Adolphe Menjou's autobiography. Am looking forward to reading it. Wonder when Gloria Swanson is going to write her autobiography? That could be good, too.

"You'd be surprised how it keeps my employes from being too ill to come to work during World Series time!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate Inc.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—In all the uproar against the Taft-Hartley law, rescinding some Hitlerian features of the Wagner Act, the voice of the American workman has never been heard.

Westbrook Pegler

It is a question just what he would say if he could raise his voice in the chorus, because he is a mixture of many motives and traits.

If the American workman could be heard, many of him would be selfish and lazy and would praise any law, such as the Wagner Act, which promised him more money than his work was worth, free vacations and protection against discharge for stalling, for destroying material, whistle-jumping and agitating on company time.

Others of him certainly would object to carrying the dead-weight load of these bums and would want to be paid according to individual ability, economy, productiveness and agreeability in the place.

I MAY BE DENOUNCED with fearless contempt for saying that employers would pay extra for charm, but that is a fact just the same.

John L. Lewis will pay more to an office worker in the U. M. W. who works with a will and a smile and doesn't send in a doctor's bill for every sneeze on the union's premises, and the late Fiorello La Guardia fired out of hand, in a terrible temper, several of his secretariat who pulled mean looks at him.

All bosses, whether boss unioneers or productive industrial bosses, naturally prefer pleasant people around them.

Many a fine baseball player has been wafted out of the major leagues and down into the leaky-roof minors just because he was a nagger and an agitator.

I DO NOT UNDERTAKE to say that the American workman would praise the Taft-Hartley law even if he could make his voice heard in the present uproar of propaganda from the professional unioneers.

In the present wrangle about the Taft-Hartley law, the professional unioneers, the exceptionally Bright Johns of the breed, keep telling the workman that this law is a dirty outrage amounting, in the rough, to a new and mysterious kind of slavery and promising him that they will fight to the death to rescue him from this fate which is worse than death.

That is a laugh. They aren't going to fight anybody. Most of them drew draft exemptions in the war. They are the actual slaveholders themselves and the common man has been their slave for a dozen years.

However, the professionals keep telling him that the emancipation or liberation provided by the Taft-Hartley law is slavery and it takes a pretty reckless fellow to say that he is too smart to be deceived by this.

FLATTERY IS a wonderful force in the work of the professionals and the politicians, such as Roosevelt, La Guardia and Senator Wagner.

They tell the American workman he is a wonderful worker, as he certainly is not and getting more slovenly, frivolous and greedy every day.

They tell him he is the most intelligent common man on the face of God's green footstool, or something like that, and he comes up yelling "Yow!"

The American workman agrees absolutely, although every one of them knows dozens of bovine, sluggish, no-account loafers who are close to the limit of their intellectual powers when they are asked to keep an eye on a red light and an ear open to an electric bell and to push a button when the light and the bell go off together, indicating that the machine which they are tending has completed a certain operation.

ALL THE PROPAGANDA turned out by the professionals against the Taft-Hartley Act follows this line. It flatters the American workman lopsided.

I have often written about the enormous nobility and gleaming shrewdness of a vapory ideal depicted as the American workman, but he is no more substantial than Santa Claus.

Nobody knows what the American workman would say about the Taft-Hartley law even if the professionals who are running the propaganda were to let him step up to the microphone and speak his own little piece, unrehearsed, from the heart and without a script.

He might say that it is an act to enslave labor with a capital L, as he has so often read in his union papers.

You couldn't much blame him for saying the Wagner Act was labor's Magna Carta. He heard that a million times, too.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1 (INS)—I became very well acquainted with Joe Di Maggio, famous Yank center fielder, when he was a patient at Johns Hopkins Hospital. He's very shy, but extremely likable after you get to know him. When he said good-by to join his baseball league in Florida for training, I had no idea I would next see him in Hollywood.

Well, he's due here after the World Series, to test for "The Life of Babe Ruth." Of course, Joe isn't playing the Babe, he is playing himself, for Roy Del Ruth, who is producing and directing Bob Considine's story.

Del Ruth is also angling for Jackie Robinson, the Negro baseball sensation. And attention, Lloyd Bunford, of the Memphis censor board. Nobody in Hollywood is afraid of you!

JOAN FONTAINE and Bill Dozier, who have been planning for weeks to go to Honolulu, are giving it up so that Joan can star in "Mayerling" at RKO in December.

Joan Fontaine

"I just couldn't turn that down," Joan said. "It seemed too good to be true when we were able to make a deal with Robert and Raymond Hakim - "we" being Joan and William Dozier, both of whom are members of Rampart Productions.

"Who will play the Charles Boyer part?" I asked, remembering this was the movie that sent Hollywood after the suave Frenchman.

Bill Dozier told me he would like to borrow Gregory Peck or Louis Jourdan.

Jourdan is with Joan now in "Letter from an Unknown Woman." Dana Andrews is another possibility. He has an outside picture, and if neither of his bosses, Mr. Goldwyn or Mr. Zanuck, needs him, well, he may do "Mayerling."

MY EXCLUSIVE that Clare Boothe Luce was heading for Hollywood didn't attract much more attention than the title of the book she is to adapt for Darryl Zanuck. "What does 'The Screwtape Letters' mean?" asked dozens of people.

I wanted to know more about the story myself, so I wangled a synopsis of C. S. Lewis' book from Darryl, and here it is:

"Screwtape" is a member in good standing in hell—a sort of righthand to his satanic majesty, and his letters are to "Wormwood," his nephew, a junior devil on earth. It is Wormwood's job to corrupt the faith of a Christian to whom he is especially assigned.

The letters are filled with diabolic promptings expected to wreck the man's faith, his relation-ship with his mother, his fiancee, and his views about war. There's humor, drama, irony, and wonderful screen material in the Lewis fantasy.

ANNE NAGEL and her war hero husband, Lt. Col. James H. Keenan, have made up their minds to a divorce—which is too bad. I say that because Anne gave up her screen career to follow her husband from one camp to another and they were very much in love when they were married in Boston in 1941.

Anne says it is just another case of not being able to adjust themselves after the war days and she's back in Hollywood to take up her movie career where she left off.

She didn't have to wait long. Her first picture, "Spirit of West Point," was previewed tonight.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Joan Crawford gets back from Honolulu tomorrow night. She stayed on the island exactly two days and was so homesick she had to return. Not much fun, because she was sea-sick all the way across.

But, she is not coming back to marry Greg Bautzer—at least, when she left Honolulu that was not her intention. It's true he long-distanced her, but they had a battle over the telephone. She says her reason for returning is to see her children. I can't blame her wanting to get back to those two baby girls.

It's amusing the difference in opinion in the Gene Tierney suspension.

Gene says, "20th Century-Fox and I have had no trouble - they were perfectly sweet about it."

But that ain't the way I hear it from the studio. They feel Gene shouldn't have kicked up a row now, with the British tax such a bugaboo, and the market cut a third. They feel her part of Julie in "Walls of Jericho" is good and that there was no reason for her walking out. But Gene says she couldn't play the part—she doesn't feel it was suited to her.

"You wanted to go to your sister's wedding, and now you'll get your wish," I told her.

She said, "Yes, isn't it wonderful that I can be her matron of honor on Oct. 11? Mother wanted it so much."

Gene can't possibly make a picture before January under this suspension, and at the studio it was said they have nothing in mind for her then.

Greer Garson made her first appearance in public following her divorce from Richard Ney, at a ringside table listening to Sophie Tucker at the Florentine Gardens.

Greer Garson

Between shows Greer said to Sophie, "I've been crying so hard. I came to see you just so I could stop."

Sophie put her arm around Greer and said, "Don't let anything get you down, honey—I never do."

Greer was in a party with Dave Selznick, Jennifer Jones, John Huston, Evelyn Keyes and Charlie Feldman. The Florentine was jumping and jiving with celebrities this same night. Another party getting a lot of attention included Clark Gable with Dolly O'Brien, the Mervyn LeRoys, Jane Greer and Eddie Lasker.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Minna Wallis is just out after a week in bed following a bad automobile accident. A hit-and-run driver smashed her car after sideswiping it and got away before anyone could get his license number.

Lana Turner dining at Peggy Cleary's talk of the town with Peter Lawford and the Jackie Coopers. But don't get any ideas about Lana and Peter. Tyrone Power knows all about her dates with him.

Mark Stevens gets out of the hospital Wednesday or Thursday, and is then expected to return home. He has been very nervous and run down and he went to the hospital at the suggestion of his doctor.

Ran into Bob Hunter of Los Angeles, who has been covering baseball for the Los Angeles Examiner at Sacramento. I told him about seeing the game on the television set which David Selznick sent Dr. Martin. It's made a fan of me.

Maryon Murphy, wife of Director Ralph Murphy, had just undergone a serious operation.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has returned home from New York, where he was master of ceremonies at a dinner for UN delegates. He was the only motion picture person thus honored. Young Doug is back of a plan to send individual packages to Europe, and it is just in the process of being worked out.

Vera-Ellen and Henry Wilson at Ciro's twosome, while Tony Martin and a blonde, Lola Dean, were dancing at the same place.

Wonder if the Bogarts know that his shortwave conversation from his boat to "Baby" Bacall in Beverly Hills, was unintentionally intercepted by Ida Lupino and Collier Young? They were on Ed Gardner's yacht at Toyan Bay.

The Errol Flynns dining at the Kings, with Errol eating a lot and Nora a little. Wonder if she's dieting?

Broadway's Voice

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—Lana Turner has a new haircut—one-inch curls covering her head . . . Walter Thornton has just registered a model from Wahoo, Neb., who insists that her real name is Twinkle Starr. (No I don't believe it, either!)

Friends recall that the late Fiorello LaGuardia always brushed off suggestions that he take radio voice training. His reply was: "I don't want to do anything to make me sound like anything but what I am." . . . Frederick Loewe, composer of "Brigadoon," is at work on a piano concerto based on the "Brigadoon" score. He'll introduce it via the major symphonies this fall . . . Sugar Ray Robinson may follow Jackie Robinson's lead and make a theatrical tour of the country. The famed prizefighter holds a musician's union card and once played the drums professionally.

Lana Turner

DANNY THOMAS, of radio, night club and screen fame, believes in signs—and not just those of the zodiac. He's arranged to buy the large sign which for years identified the famous "5100 Club" in Chicago, and this he plans to install above the club he will build and operate in Beverly Hills, Cal. But, unlike the night spot where Danny got his start and worked for three years, the new "5100 Club" will be in the nature of a theatrical and social retreat, with an extra-large lounge, a piano and a microphone. Entertainment will be impromptu, supplied by the many former vaudevillians and night club entertainers who now make their home in Hollywood. Proprietor Thomas says he will make appearances from time to time, but "only for kicks." (And rumor has it that Frank Sinatra is planning a similar venture.)

DOES Sherman Billingsley know there's now a "Stork Club" in Johannesburg, South Africa? It's the most fabulous spot on the continent, catering to the wealthy diamond tycoons . . . It'll be a roundly solitary between Dukums, the Dest Arnaz vocalist, and her groom, Bob Matthews. The lad she adores now is Peter Lawford . . . The Shuberts are talking to performers about the next edition of the Ziegfeld Follies, so it's pretty certain the series will have its revival before this theatrical season is over . . . Noblesse oblige. When Universal wanted Nelle Fisher and William Skipper (the Broadway dancers featured in "Up In Central Park") to absorb movie dancing technique, they shut them up in a projection room and showed them "Cover Girl" a film made by Columbia.

MEMBERS of Fortune Gallo's opera troup are balking about traveling to one-night stands via bus. They want more luxurious transportation . . . Type casting: John L. Toohey, press agent for the soon-due "The Big People," is six feet, five inches tall . . . Most genuine blondes darken their eyelashes, but when brown-eyed brunette designer Florence Lusty became a strawberry blonde, she went all out for lightness and is now the only chic chick around boasting strawberry blonde eyelashes . . . Pierre threats and name calling are being exchanged between a celebrated night club Ziegfeld and his behind-the-scene financier, but because the former is homecoming out with a second cafe in a competitive location and he didn't give the "money man" an interest in it.

MARY KIRK BROWN has been recurrently suffering from a weird fungus infection that baffles her physicians . . . Veteran stage producer Walter Morosco and Marie O'Keefe are honeymooning after an elopement. Morosco was once wed to film beauty Corinne Griffith . . . Pola Negri, the silent screen enchantress, is on the last chapters of her autobiography for Farrar, Straus . . . You can really go exotic at the bar in Ruby Foo's Den. Among the new Oriental concoctions on tap are the Fu Manchu, Poor Butterfly and the Missionary's Downfall! . . . Vivian Garry, the jazz trio leader, has been named "Swingdom's Prettiest Musician" in a poll of over 1000 maestros. She's the mother of an 8-year-old boy . . . Rex Harrison has been offered the lead role in the forthcoming Broadway show "Tomas And The Angel." He'd play the angel . . . A new hotel in Dallas is planning a television screen in every room. If the notion is successful, it may be adopted by several New York inns.

Washington Scene

By George Dixon

Copyright 1947, King Features Synd., Inc.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—William Stuart Symington, our new secretary of the Air Force, is the most hounded man in Washington. The pressure is on him day and night to get guys back into the Air Force.

The situation is well-nigh incredible. It seems only yesterday that men were clawing and scratching, calling upon every bit of influence they could muster, to get out of uniform.

Practically everybody seemed to want to get out. If their discharge was held up five minutes, they howled bloody murder, yelping "Fascist!" and "military caste!"

But how that picture has changed! Literally thousands are fighting to get back in, far harder than they ever fought to get out. This goes for all branches of the services, but most of all for the air arm. A lot of flying heroes discovered civilian life wasn't all they had dreamed; that there's often a distinct lack of glamor to handling the stick on a soda fountain or watching the instrument panel on a grocery truck.

"A lot of them also got their full of that good old home cooking," adds Mr. Symington. "They began craving Army food again."

THE NEW Air Force secretary, however, is getting the pressure no harder than his equally-new chief of staff, Gen. Carl Spaatz. Under unification, incidentally, "Tooey" Spaatz now holds equal rank with Ike Eisenhower of the divorced Army.

The grizzled Spaatz and the tall, trim Symington make a great team. "We're partners," says Symington. "And we're brutally frank with each other."

Gen. Spaatz' frankness with his civilian boss was epitomized the other day. Symington called on the inter-office buzz box and asked about the progress of a certain matter involving a very high Washington dignitary.

Gen. Spaatz stutters. He stammered that he had contacted the notable, as requested, and had put the proposition up to him.

"What did he say?" asked Mr. Symington.

"He s-s—said he was th-th—thinking it over," stuttered the general. "You ka-know Stuart, he always th-th—thinks th—th—things over before he goes off half-cocked!"

THE 46-YEAR-OLD W. Stuart Symington has taken over all military flying from the Army except for some reconnaissance work. His office is in a five-sided building over in Arlington, Va., now officially renamed the National Defense building. Its official name used to be the War Department building. There never was a building hereabouts named the Pentagon. Somebody observed, during its construction, that it looked like a pentagon and the name stuck.

Asked his opinion on unification, he said: "Nobody got everything he wanted, but time and experience should iron out most of these differences. If I have any basic regret about it, it is that Congress undertook to determine our separate functions by legislation. To my mind it would have been better to leave it up to executive decision because the latter can be changed at a minute's notice without having to go through legislative processes all over again.

"I sum up my feelings toward unification like this: I regard it as an opportunity rather than an accomplishment!"

"STU" SYMINGTON has sometimes been pictured as a "charm boy" but he's also a glutton for work.

He built up a dying electrical company out in St. Louis all by himself and performed wonders in setting up the federal surplus property board, forerunner of the War Assets Administration, which has been described as a $100 billion dollar second-hand store.

"One thing unification will do," he says, "is subject military expenditures to closer scrutiny. This was becoming absolutely imperative. For instance, we have one warplane coming out for which the propellers alone will cost $168,000 per airplane. There's got to be a check on expenditures like this to make certain the taxpayers are getting $168,000 worth of value."

SYMINGTON IS a Yale man. It may be coincidence but his undersecretary, Arthur S. Barrows, is a Yale man and so are his two assistant secretaries, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney and Eugene M. Zuckert. On dull days, if any, they can "Boola Boola" all over the joint.

Be on Time at Colonial For 'Oklahoma' Curtain

When the first Theater Guild-Richard Rodgers-Oscar Hammerstein 2d Agnes de Mille musical smash-hit, "Oklahoma!" opens a five-week engagement at the Colonial Theater Monday night, the management urges every ticket holder to be in his seat before the curtain at 8.20 p. m. sharp.

This, of course, applies to all subsequent evening performances. There is 2.20 curtain for the Wednesday and Saturday matinee performances.

BOB HOPE AT LAFFMOVIE

Bob Hope, in 18th century costumes, makes history hysterical in "Monsieur Beaucaire," which is now to be seen on the Laffmovie screen. Paramount's version of the Booth Tarkington adventure romance co-stars lovely Joan Caulfield with Hope.

OLYMPIA, SCOLLAY BILL

"Mother Wore Tights," the Betty Grable-Dan Dailey co-starrer out of 20th Century-Fox studios, is now to be seen on the Olympia and Scollay screens. On the same bill is the Gene Autry Western with music, "Robin Hood of Texas."

LONG ODDS

GREEN BAY, Wis., Oct. 1 (AP)—Sam Collins emptied the second three-gallon can of fuel into the tank of his home's oil heater.

"If this stove burns oil at this rate, we'll go broke," he complained to his wife.

He didn't know how close both of them were to "going broke"—in more ways than one.

Police had been searching frantically for Mrs. Collins to warn her she had been sold six gallons of gasoline instead of fuel oil and that they had escaped an explosion by one chance in a million.

"Burned fine," Sam said shakily.

DRIVE-IN THEATERS BUSY

The Drive-In Theaters at Saugus, Weymouth, Shrewsbury and Raynham, now operating on the new fall schedule, present shows continuously from 7:30 p. m. to midnight. The program changes on Mondays and Fridays.

'Crossfire' at RKO Reveals Hate So Dangerous It Kills

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Hating is always the same, always senseless. One day it kills Irish Catholics, the next day Jews, the next Protestants, the next day Quakers. It's hard to stop. It can end up killing men who wear striped neckties, or people from Tennessee."

That is what one of the principal characters in "Crossfire" says and what its producer believes.

"Crossfire" is the RKO Radio picture that came into the Keith Memorial yesterday without any ballyhoo, as it has into theaters throughout the country, and opened to SRO business, as it is doing wherever it is being shown.

It promises to be one of the biggest money-makers in history, this picture that talks frankly and fearlessly on the subject of anti-Semitism and that other Hollywood producers said couldn't be made "because we'd lose our shirts." RKO's Dore Schary made it for the incredibly modest cost of $600,000 in just 23 days.

There is some heavy-going occasionally as to dialogue, some slipups on identities and names and a lack of clarity in the opening sequences, but these may be brushed aside in the rewarding articulateness of John Paxton's fine script coalesced with the grimly arresting pace Director Edward Dmytryk has achieved and the superb performances

"Crossfire" is the old story of hate with a new motive. A Jew (Sam Levene) is beaten to death in his Washington, D. C., hotel room by one of a group of somewhat drunken GI's whom he has met at a bar an hour earlier.

At headquarters, the D. A. (Robert Young), questioning the soldiers except the missing suspect, rules out the usual motives . . . robbery, blackmail, jealousy. The key comes through a flashback when one of them said to the man now dead, "What'sa matter Jew-boy, afraid we'll drink up all your liquor?"

Acting on this hunch, the D.A. lays a trap for the hate-filled, loudmouthed Montgomery (Robert Ryan) with the aid of his friend Leroy (William Phipps).

Ryan, until a few recent pictures usually cast in heroic mold and actually one of the screen's most ruggedly handsome younger stars, is superlative as the man so poisoned by blind anti-Semitism that he murders. Robert Young's district attorney quietly forceful and unbelievably patient, is one of his best portrayals.

UP THERE in the top brackets is William Powell's autocrat of the breakfast table in "Life With Father," which continues to do smash business at the Esquire and Modern theaters.

Envoy Tells Poles to Rely On U. S. Peace Efforts

WARSAW, Oct. 1 (AP)—U. S. Ambassador Stanton Griffis told a press conference that the Poles must trust the United States to do her best to bring about world peace.

"If nations have no confidence in each other," he said, "then civilization will shortly end. Either you are going to trust the U. S. or not, and you had better make up your mind."

N. E. Telephone Offers $40,000,000 Bond Issue

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP) — Halsey Stuart & Co. and associates today offer to the public $40,000,000 of New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. 35-year 3 per cent debentures at 101⅝, or a yield to maturity of about 2.93 per cent.

Proceeds will be used to repay funds borrowed from the parent American Telephone & Telegraph Co. for construction purposes and to restore to its treasury funds already expended for that reason.

Menus That Save Money

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

HAS THE HIGH COST of living got you licked? Just remember that the homemaker who is a good manager can make the best of any food situation. And American women generally are good managers. If the foods they like most are unavailable or beyond their means, they'll find a way to use substitutes without penalizing their families on the nutrition score.

This week, we are attempting to help homemakers faced with the problem of serving tasty, nutritious meals within a limited budget. We are presenting a series of economy menus and recipes that have been prepared by the famous Good Housekeeping Institute. By following them, it will be posible for families to eat well and at the same time, abide by the appeal of President Truman to make every ounce of food count so that emergency aid can be shipped to Europe.

Be sure to read and clip these money-saving menus—you'll refer to them time and again.

BREAKFAST

Prunes with Orange Slices
Hot Oatmeal with Milk
Buttered Toast Preserves
Coffee or Tea
Milk for Children

LUNCHEON

Creamed Eggs and Cheese on Toast
Apple, Cabbage and Raisin Salad
Molasses Cookies
Coffee or Tea
Milk for Children

DINNER

Canned Corned Beef Hash
Lima Beans Stewed Tomatoes
Raw Carrot Sticks
Toasted Rolls
Creamy Rice Pudding with Drizzle of Chocolate Sauce (optional)
Milk

CREAMED EGGS AND CHEESE ON TOAST

6 hot shelled, hard-cooked eggs
3 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 tbsp. minced onion (optional)
3 tbsp. flour ½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce (optional) 2 cups milk
¼ to ½ cup grated processed American cheddar cheese
1 tbsp. minced parsley Toast

Hard cook the eggs, then peel off the shells. Partially fill base of double boiler with water and bring to a boil. Melt butter in top of double boiler over direct heat. Add onion and simmer until tender. Remove from heat. Add flour, salt and pepper, mixing well. Add Worcestershire sauce if desired. Set top in place over slowly boiling water in double boiler. Slowly stir in milk and cheese. Cook, stirring, until smooth and thickened. Add parsley. Cut eggs into slices, halves or quarters. Gently fold into sauce. Heat. Serve on toast. Makes 4 servings.

CREAMY RICE PUDDING

1 qt. milk
⅓ cup raw white rice washed
½ tsp. salt
⅓ cup granulated sugar
½ tsp. nutmeg
½ cup seedless raisins

Scald the milk in top of double boiler. Add the other ingredients slowly, stirring constantly. Cook, covered, over hot water for 1¼ hours, stirring frequently. Chill and serve plain or with a little chocolate sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

CHOCOLATE SAUCE

Melt ½ of a 7-oz. package semi-sweet chocolate over boiling water. Add 4½ tsp. boiling water and blend. Then add 2 tbsp. rich milk and stir until smooth. Serve hot or cold. Makes ½ cup.

TODAY'S ECONOMY BREAKFAST

Makes Complexion Glow

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

WE EAT VITAMINS for body health . . . why not wear them for facial beauty? There was pretty sound logic to this reasoning . . . and a noted cosmetician set herself to the task of embodying raw vitamins in a beauty treatment that would do for the complexion what an adequate vitamin diet does for the human motor.

And she succeeded. It is a new twist to an old formula . . . with a few extra specific ingredients tossed in for good measure . . . and it stands up. All of which produces the sum total of a facial cathartic that cheers the complexion to a happy and healthy expanse

It is served up to the face like a poultice . . . to magnetize the skin of impurities . . . penetrate for an inside-out cleansing . . . to make bulging pores behave and return to some degree of normalcy . . . to lend lustre to the skin . . . and generally speaking, to tighten the facial contours.

A well balanced, vitamin-filled diet makes the system's energy tick . . . and this raw vitamin mask treatment makes the complexion glow. The raw vitamins are contained in a creamy, fragrant powder which when applied in paste form to the skin feeds and stimulates the complexion. The other components lubricate and assist in rebuilding facial tissues.

How do you "wear" facial vitamins? By the simple process of mixing this creamy powder . . . about a teaspoonful at a time . . . with a few drops of water. Then smooth it over the face and neck and allow it to dry. Ten minutes will do the trick. Then wash it off with oodles of tepid and cold water . . . and hurry and take a mirror-quick-see of yourself. Nice? You bet!

Its creator uses this treatment on her own skin . . . which, you can take it from me . . . is pretty special. She is living proof of what good cosmetic care can do for a complexion. For if the truth be known . . . she isn't nearly as young as she looks. We've known her for several years . . . and we can't see any visible age change in her face.

We don't presume to know how the senoritas south of the border maintain their facial vivacity . . . but if this South American cosmetician is an example . . . then she knows what her beauty products are worth.

For the name of this raw vitamin mask pomade, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, daily except Sunday, or write me, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WHAT GIRL wouldn't look into the mirror if (1) she was eye-catching as this out-of-the-blue model . . . and (2) owned such an intriguing Wadsworth-designed gold-kid accordion pleated powder case? Both the girl and the Persian-motifed square case are beauties . . . because they have a facial expanse that's as smooth as marble and as valuable as gold.

Win Over Mother-in-Law

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THERE SEEM TO BE a great many different kinds of relationships into which a young wife and her mother-in-law can fall. The two may start off liking each other and find their friendship grows warmer all the time; that, of course, is the happiest thing that can happen. Or, in the beginning, there may be less friendliness on one side than on the other, and, as time goes on and the two get to know each other better, the initial differences may be overcome. That is the next best situation

All the others that I have observed and heard of present hard problems. There is, for instance, the situation in which mother-in-law and daughter-in-law dislike each other heartily and never get over it; and the one in which the mother-in-law refuses to accept her son's wife; or the one in which the daughter-in-law is jealous of her mother-in-law's place in her husband's affections. The number of variations on the mother-in-law and daughter-in-law relationship may be infinitely varied and to solve any one of them happily is apt to be a major undertaking.

A young bride of 17, who writes me about her mother-in-law problem, has one of the most difficult of all. Although she does not specifically say so, one draws the inference from her letter that she and her husband kept their marriage a secret from his mother until recently because of her obstructionist attitude toward it.

"When we were married a year ago, my mother and father approved of our marriage," she writes, "but I am afraid that my mother-in-law did not like me at all. A few weeks ago, I went to see her to tell her of our marriage. When I told her, she got so mad that she turned me out of her home and forbade me to come again. She didn't let me finish what I wanted to say, so the next day I tried to phone her, but she hung up. What I wanted to tell her was that I am going to have her son's baby.

"I really don't know what she has against me. It can't be very much because his father and sister like me. How can I make her like me and should I tell my father-in-law or mother-in-law of the baby first? My husband, who is 18 and in the Army, knows of the baby and so do my parents."

Since this girl is unable to put a finger on any definite reason for her mother-in-law's dislike of her, it may be an instance of maternal jealousy and unwillingness to give up a son to a wife. The fact that this is a common type of mother-in-law situation does not make it any easier to solve.

Care in Making Fur Hat

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

THE designing of a fur hat is a delicate art. Too much fur and too little artistry result in a hat that makes its wearer look like Daniel Boone in his coonskin cap. Too little fur handled with skimpy imagination makes people wonder if the wearer shot a squirrel and is wearing its pelt as a trophy.

A beautiful fur hat will be simple. The few fine skins that comprise it will be perfectly matched. They will be neither too many nor too few. It will have definite shape but the shape will not be so spectacular that it detracts from the richness of the fur.

A lovely new note in fur hats is the use of color contrast. Harmony is preserved by using two colors of the same kind of fur rather than two different furs. The hat sketched today, a Laddie Northridge design, is an outstanding example of color contrast in a beautiful fur hat. White mink skins are swirled in rounded toque effect to make the bulk of the hat. Its little brow band is dark brown mink.

Build Strong Bodies 8 Ways with WONDER BREAD

Note How Amazing Wonder Bread Compares with Meat, Milk and Fish in Certain Growth and Energy-Building Contents (as stated at left)

The better the nutrition, the better your child's resistance to the invasion of bacteria.

The better the nutrition, the better your child can recover from bacterial or virus infections.

Better nutrition means just one thing—an adequate well-balanced diet.

Among other things, plenty of meat and milk and fruits and vegetables. And good bread.

Serve Wonder Bread to your child. Wonder Bread gives your child 8 of the body-building elements Nature uses to build a good health foundation.

See for yourself, at left, the 8 ways Wonder Bread helps build strong bodies.

Your child will love Wonder Bread. Because it tastes so good. So good because so fresh. Plain or toasted.

For Wonder Bread is doubly fresh. Fresh when you buy it and fresh when you eat it.

Because Wonder Bread is slo-baked—baked 13% longer than many ordinary kinds for lasting freshness.

So get nourishing doubly fresh Wonder Bread from your grocer today. And see that your child gets plenty of Wonder Bread for breakfast—and every meal!

Smart Set Gay Party Season

By BETTY ALDEN

PRETTY AS FAMILY PORTRAITS in beautiful gowns of tulle, taffeta or velvet, the debutantes of 1947-48 are enjoying a continuous whirl of memorable autumn coming out parties. Since Harvard opened there has been a succession of large dances on the North Shore to make this the gayest debutante season in years.

The next ball will be the one Mr. and Mrs. Harrison G. Reynolds of Marlborough st. and "White Lodge," Manchester, are giving Saturday evening at the Essex County Club. More than 500 guests will dance at this party in honor of the Reynolds' debutante daughter Molly.

Molly and Nancy Blackall her close friends will be entertained at an ushers' dinner given before the dance by Mrs. Philip Stockton of Manchester and her parents' friends will dine at the Myopia Hunt Club with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Foster of Smith's Point, Manchester.

Philip M. Reynolds, the debutante's brother, will be head usher with a staff of 22 assistants including Q. A. Shaw McKean Jr., Walter Schier, William Barron, John Maynard, Frank Seabury, George Post, Kennedy Maddendorf, Willard R. Simpkins, George Coburn, Hamilton Coolidge, John Flint Jr., David Richardson, Richard Hall, Herbert Gleason, Edward Reynolds, John Bradley, Harcourt Amory, James Potter, Francis Cummings, James Redway, Richard Sears 3d and James McKittrick.

Molly's aunt, Mrs. R. Peyton Burnett (Barbara Reynolds), a former president of the Vincent Club, is coming from New York for the party and also Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fletcher of New York. Other house guests will be several of Molly's classmates at St. Timothy's School from which she graduated last June, including Ann Eddison, Grace Montgomery, Lucy Lynch, of New York; Teresa Adrian, Tuxedo Park; Sally Clark, Baltimore; Mary Howe and Mia Atherton, Ottawa, Canada.

MR. AND MRS. BERTRAM K. LITTLE of Brookline, well known among society's antique lovers for their collections of early American furniture and glass, paid a visit to the Antiques Show at the Copley Plaza together with Mrs. Bertram Rueter of Brookline and Mrs. William A. Whitcomb of Dedham who especially admired the exhibits of old silver.

The show continues through tomorrow under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Hazen. One of the outstanding gathering places for Bostonian visitors is the Sheltered Workshop booth sponsored by the Boston Tuberculosis Association where a bevy of the season's debs is on duty to sell gifts and reproductions of antiques. At the booth we chatted with debutante Nancy Blackall of Milton and her mother, Mrs. Brewer Blackall. The latter wore a modish gray suit and matching hat with an uncurled ostrich plume draped over the brim. Nancy set off her reddish brown hair with an emerald green wool suit and gold costume jewelry.

Debutante Anstiss Ohl wore her new fall pencil stripe suit and Sylvia Breed and Peggy Hunter were also helping out at the booth. Other visitors included Mrs. Charles Spalding, Mrs. George S. Safford, Mrs. Howard West, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, Mrs. Frederick W. Allison, Mrs. Louis A. Elliott, Mrs. Lesley Livermore and Mrs. David Boyd.

Protest Red Blast At U. S. in Reich

BERLIN, Oct. 1 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today he had asked the Russian military administration to investigate an address to a political gathering of Germans by a Soviet representative who attacked United States motives in Germany.

Clay, U. S. military governor in Germany, said Soviet Col. Tulpanow made the speech to a convention of the Socialist Unity party and that it was "the first public attack by an official of the Four-Power administration on one of the other powers before a German audience."

Fire Prevention Parade Switched to Saturday

The Boston Fire Department parade and drill which every year opens the observation of Fire Prevention Week will be held Saturday instead of Sunday so as not to interfere with the Holy Name Society celebration, it was announced today by Chief Napoen Boutilier.

Parade units will assemble at 10 A. M. Saturday in Bowdoin sq., march through Scollay sq., along Trement st. to the Common where drill teams will demonstrate their skill on aerial ladders. Firemen in conjunction with Red Cross workers will also give a first aid demonstration.

CUMMINGS GAINING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Former Atty.-Gen. Homer S. Cummings, 77, who underwent a gall bladder operation 10 days ago, "is improving nicely and seemingly is out of danger," Dr. Paul F. Dickens reported today.

Miss Mystery, 13, Irks Cops Plenty

A 13-year-old girl found wandering in the Cliftondale section of Saugus provided police with a minor mystery for almost 10 hours today before she finally admitted her identity and was taken home by her parents.

Spotted strolling along Central st., well after midnight, the blonde girl was questioned by Patrolman William Cahill. She maintained a stony silence when asked questions and remained silent for long hours even at the police station. She carried nothing to help identify her.

Police tried persuasion, cajoling, and severity. They got no help. Asked if she had a tongue, the girl nodded and stuck it out. Finally, Little Miss Mystery broke down and admitted who she was. Police called her parents. Mother and father arrived and took their daughter home.

Harvard Eleven Should Have One Of Its Best Years

By JACK CONWAY

AFTER SEEING HARVARD crush Western Maryland and show a varied and powerful attack in its practice sessions, it is our opinion that Dick Harlow will have one of his greatest Crimson teams this season. It does not look too good for Boston University, Harvard's opposition at the Stadium on Saturday.

"Buff" Donelli, Boston University coach, will have a better eleven in the field this season than has represented the local college in years, but it has not the strength of Harvard. The game will give the Crimson a much better test than it received when it defeated Western Maryland. The latter was snowed under quickly in the first period and from there on it was only a question of how many points Harvard cared to win by.

Harlow has always been one of the better college football coaches. Without the aid of athletic scholarships and a cash payoff to star players, such as are in effect at many of the colleges that have starred on the gridiron, Harvard has usually managed to come up with a good team by November. He had a great team back in 1940 and its members all entered service a short time after the final whistle blew. That was the team on which Peabody played.

"I was glad to see Peabody do so well," said Tack Hardwick. "He proved that a rich boy can also star at football if he works hard enough at it."

Boston University has started a new football system. It must build from the bottom, and with "Buff" Donelli in charge, it has the football brains to do so.

Donelli and Boston University have the full financial backing of Tom Yawkey of the Red Sox who is anxious to secure a top local football attraction at Fenway Park, now that Boston College is back at Braves Field. Yawkey will make rental and other arrangements, if necessary, to enable Boston University to build with intelligence for the future.

Boston University supporters are hopeful their club will win from Harvard on Saturday, but after seeing the Crimson in action it is our opinion they will be disappointed.

Football Conflict Like Those of Race Track

THE RACE TRACKS have no monopoly on conflicts. Boston College will battle Kansas State at Braves Field on the night of Oct. 10, while on the same evening at Fenway Park Boston University will take on New York University. This conflict could have been avoided as the afternoon of Oct. 11 is an open date with Harvard at Virginia. The only Greater Boston game on the afternoon of October 11 for followers of college football will be the one between Northeastern and Fort Devens.

In view of the growing interest in Harvard, Boston College and Boston University football, it would be well for the athletic directors of these colleges to reveal to each other their plans for schedules. Such a move would result in greater attendances at the college games.

Rockingham Park and Narragansett Park, which have been running in opposition to each other, have found out that such things do not do either track any good. Beginning on Monday Lincoln Downs will oppose Rockingham Park. Its opposition will not be as serious as that of Narragansett Park.

It is hoped that in 1948 the four major tracks in New England will be able to make date arrangements that will prevent conflicts. The parole has been running out of fresh money this year, and with the cost of living still up in the skies it is likely there will be less money around for wagering in 1948.

J. McCarthy the Boss

JOE McCARTHY has been vested with full powers to operate the Red Sox as he sees fit in 1948. It will be up to Joe Cronin and the Red Sox farm system to furnish McCarthy with the material he will need.

McCarthy will want a new third baseman, while he may decide he requires additional power at first base. The Sox also need pitching strength. It is likely that there will be several startling deals before the season opens. Joe McCarthy has kept close enough to baseball to know what players are available and what he will have to give up to get them.

Once McCarthy, Cronin, Collins and Yawkey get together at the close of the World Series, there are likely to be some interesting Red Sox deals which will give the fans plenty to talk about during the fall and winter months.

Random Shots

THE RECENT amateur boxing show featuring the Hawaiian boxers had a $1500 profit which was divided equally between the Garden, N.E.A.A.U. and the Hawaiian team . . . Walter Brown offered to give the Garden's share of the spoils to the New England A.A.U., but that organization turned his offer down . . . The Garden got $1800 for rental . . . The Advertiser, a newspaper in Honolulu, put up $29,000 to pay the expenses of the Hawaiian boxers on their tour . . . This money was earned at amateur boxing shows.

Dodgers Can Kiss Series Goodbye If Lombardi Fails

By HUCK FINNEGAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—Brooklyn's Burt Shotton wouldn't admit it but he planned to toss southpaw Vic Lombardi against the Yanks' Allie Reynolds today, and if Lombardi can't stop Harris' Harassers, how can the Series go to longer than six games? What's Brooklyn going to use for pitchers?

As the Yankees confidently predicted, 21-game winner Ralph Branca couldn't stop them in the opener. "He's another Hank Borowy," they had said after Monday's final tuneup. "He seldom finishes a game during the regular season, so how can he finish against us?"

Branca started out like an all-time World Series hero. For four innings he pitched no-reach ball, and hung five Yanks up on a hook via the strikeout route. He was ahead of every batter, and his control was faultless. Press box inhabitants started thumbing the Red Book to see if ever a perfect game was pitched in the harvest moon festival.

"You won't need the book after the eighth inning," said Boston's Jimmy Bagley. "This guy will blow in the eighth, why, he had a no-hit game with one out in the ninth against the Cards, and he muffed it."

Bagley was three innings out of the way. Joe DiMaggio opened the fifth with a single to deep short that Peewee Reese backhanded, that was the spark the Yanks needed. Followed the conflagration.

Yankees moved to the lip of the dugout cupping their hands and barking invectives at 21-year-old Branca. Their diatribe upset him no end. In contrast to the spot pitching he had been doing, he proceeded to walk McQuinn on four pitches. Then he hit Johnson to fill the bases, the ball wounding Johnsons hand which he used as a shield for his head. And nobody out yet.

How the Yankees poured it on. Branca was so jittery he started aiming the ball instead of rearing back and throwing it. Then the break of the game. Lindell doubled over Jorgensen's head, the ball landing fair only by inches to score DiMadge and McQuinn.

"Get him out of there," pleaded Brooklyn rooters knowing Branca's penchant for falling apart, but Shotton let him stay on. So he walked Rizzuto, and the bases were filled again—and still nobody out.

Harris' brain was nimble. Shea had given only two hits and one cheap run in five innings. He was pitching fine ball but he was slow and might hit into a DP and Joe Page was thoroughly warmed up.

"Let's go for the big inning," Harris grumbled, and he sent Bobby Brown in to hit for Shea.

One ball, two balls. "Get Branca out of there," Brooklyn supporters pleaded, and this time Shotton heeded their plea. He sent in Hank Behrman, but Hank walked Brown, forcing Johnson home with the third run of the frame. Stirnweiss hit to Robinson, and Lindell was out at the plate, but Henrich always is bad news.

One strike, two strikes. This was the spot to make Henrich hit a bad pitch, the exact situation wherein Mel Ott slapped a $500 fine on Bill Voiselle for letting Johnny Hopp hit in the 2-0 count. Behrman got it in there, and Henrich blasted a drive to left between Jorgenson and Reese that scored Rizzuto and Brown. No $500 fine was plastered on Behrman by Shotton, but that pitch probably meant the loser's end of the World Series checks. Those two runs were the margin of the ball game.

The Dodgers have a sound club, for the National League. Their defense is airtight. They can run, Robinson, as Bill Robinson said, is Ty Cobb in Technicolor. He had Shea so worried in the third that he forced him to balk. There were two out at the time, and Shea should have been pitching to the batter ignoring the base runner. But Shea even threw to second after the balk and he was lucky the ball didn't go into center field. As it was it bounded 10 feet from the bag, the throw was so poor.

Yeh, the Dodgers can run, they can steal on Berra, too. But all this energy gets them only one run at a time because they have no long ball hitters. And what good are those single runs when you haven't got airtight pitching to back it up?

Branca's spirit is broken, no question. If he appears again in the series, it'll be in relief. Southpaw Joe Hatten won 17 games during the season but he took only one decision from a first division club, and that after the flag was clinched. He doesn't figure to be around any longer than Branca. The Yanks will ridicule him off the mound. Taylor is supposed to be out of the Series, at least as a starter, and the Yanks say Hugh Casey is easy to hit.

Put them all together, and it's difficult to see how the Yanks can lose—unless Lombardi can carry the load like Brecheen did last year against the Red Sox. Lombardi appears to be the Dodgers, last hope. If the Yanks record is 2-0 tonight, the Series is ended.

Fitkin Back in Green Lineup

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 1 (AP)—Hal Fitkin, a 175-pound halfback who has been out of action with a preseason practice injury, today looms as the Dartmouth breakaway runner Coach "Tuss" McLaughry needs to get his offense rolling.

Fitkin, who returned to action yesterday, made the eyes of the Indians' coaching staff pop with his fancy footwork in yesterday's hard scrimmage for the weekend's Syracuse visit.

St. Michael's to Use Freshmen Saturday

WINOOSKI PARK, Vt., Oct. 1 (AP)—St. Michael's first football team in many years will be strengthened by the use of freshmen Saturday against Champlain College.

Three first-year men, forbidden to play against Vermont colleges under State Conference rules, will help the milkmen both offensively and defensively. They are John Wojiechowski, 201-pound fullback from Pittsfield, Mass., Francis Cunningham, 213-pound lineman from Revere, Mass., and Paul Galarneau, a scrappy 149-pound guard.

Series' Opener Dull Attraction; Needs a Ty Cobb

By BILL CORUM

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (INS)—As a rule it's fun to write a column, if only to show how dumb you are. Which, being a great admirer and constant reader of my own effusions, I often think must be the general idea of the column writing trade.

However, it's a little tough to have to grind out an epic when so many fellows that you like, and like to be with, are in town.

Fellows like Mons. Patrick O'Brien, the inventor of O'Brien potatoes, I believe. And fellows like the old "Grey Eagle" of Lake Erie, Tris Speaker; Baron Long, the host of the coast; the Eddie Collinses, Pop and Jr. Aloysius Simmons, Michael (himself) Cochrane, "Long Bob" Meusel, Dick Andrade, Charlie Hughes, Wallie Pipp, the two Joes, Cronin and McCarthy, and an entire cast of characters too numerous to mention.

These are days when many people seem to live with the impression that everybody is a polecat but me and thee, and thee don't smell exactly like Chanel No. 5 on a gorgeous blonde but I guess I'm lucky. It happens that I've never found it that way, and must believe that I'm too old to start.

Maybe there are more pleasant things than standing around cutting up touches and baseball as she is played with Herbie Pennock, the Squire of Kennett Square, Pa., but I'll take that and one more short beer, if you please, Lennie, before I go home to do my piece.

That was a pretty dull and lack-lustre ball game that we New Yorkers had to offer in the Yankee Stadium yesterday as the World Series began. But nobody can say that our visitors aren't exciting. Not to me, they can't, without starting a fight. But, then who did I ever lick.

Anybody Could Manage Today

I THINK I know what was wrong with this crowd-and-receipts-record-breaking ball game in which 73,356 alleged fans sat on their hands. And I'll tell you, if you won't tell Chandler.

It was a game that needed a McGraw, a Frisch, a Dykes, or a Durocher. That cried for just one personality on the field as a baby cries for candy.

Yet, no other ball game ever dropped $325,826.70 into the till, and who am I to laugh off 300 G's until I get my next seven-horse parlay stuck together?

But don't think I'm fooling entirely. You can do it with Flags and Lombardos and Chi-Chi for a time. I guess you can do it for a long time if the president of the Bigwitx Corp. is out to give his trusty salesman who sent the graps line over Mount Everest last year a holiday at the World Series.

But some day baseball must either come back to Cobbs and McGraws and Robbies and Gleasons, or even these once-a-year customers will find it out.

The way what was once an intriguing and take-a-chance sort of game is being played now, I've got a 12-year-old son who'd make a great $30,000-a-year manager on any playing field. Which is to say that the young man knows his left hand from his right hand—and he isn't the smartest boy in his school, either—and you MUST send in a left-hand hitter against a right hand pitcher, and vice versa.

So you do it and you lose. Well, you played the book, didn't you? That's what it says in plain print. How can anybody condemn you? The only trouble is that everybody has read the book.

There's no imagination. No inspiration. No daring to do something different.

I must make an explanation here for Bucky Harris, who gambled on a big inning yesterday and won the first game of the Series doing it. By yanking a two-hit pitcher (Shea) in the fifth inning.

Jackie Tried

EVEN SO, all Bucky Harris was really doing was leading with his ace, Joe Page. Still, it could very well have cost Stanley Raymond and his young men the ball game if the big inning he gambled on hadn't materialized.

Harris' slightly-off-the-beaten-path guess and two sparkling running catches in succession by Carl Furillo were the only highlights—and not too high, either—of an exceptionally dull ball game.

In the nature of the game there must be such games and it was just a bit of bad luck that yesterday's opener before such a tremendous throng should have been like that.

Yet there have been Ty Cobbs and kindred souls who could have any old sort of ball game and give it a touch of glamour, a lift, by the mere fact of playing in it.

What we have now is a sort of baseball that discourages the likes of Ty. That seeks to make every player just another "number" in a group of nine men.

Under the circumstances of his being the first Negro ever to appear in a World Series, they could not quite do that to Jackie Robinson yesterday. It must also be said, in fairness, that Jackie added a little something of his own to this game. He was alive and moving out there.

Could Mean 4 Straight

NOR AM I taking a crack of any kind at Burton Shotton when I say that he can't win this series from Brooklyn, waiting and hoping for the Robert E. Lee to come up the river. Either the Harlem or the Gowanus.

I know Shotton's been around a long time because I used to watch him beating out those high hoppers a long time ago.

But if Burt keeps on being patient with pitchers as palpably through for the day as Ralph Branca was through after he nicked Billy Johnson with a wild pitch that either had to hit Bill or the backstop, this series will be over before he knows it. Which could mean in four straight games.

That ain't funny, McGee, if you're for Brooklyn. But funny or no, that's the way it may be.

Kiner Sees Dodger Win

By RALPH KINER
Pittsburgh Home Run Champion
(Written Exclusively for International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (INS)—I think the Brooklyn Dodgers still have a great chance to win the World Series.

I have a lot of respect for Joe DiMaggio, a great slugger, and for Tommy Henrich—both as long-ball hitters and as great outfielders.

But those two Yankees, and my old opponent of high school days in California, Johnny Lindell, can't carry all the load.

The Yankees won the first of the Series yesterday, not on hitting, but on the wildness of one of the National League's best pitchers, Ralph Branca, who suddenly collapsed after a great four-inning job.

Yesterday the Yankees couldn't hit. Of their four blows, two were timely—Lindell's double and Henrich's single. They came after walks and a hit batsman, and they provided the difference.

Today, those shadows of the light towers and the right side of the Stadium that confuse batters when that ball is coming up may again be there.

I was impressed most by DiMaggio, especially when I saw that wide expanse of left field he has had to clear to hit all the home runs he has hit in Yankee Stadium.

There is only one little plot where he can get a homer. Many of his drives have to carry 450 feet to get into the seats.

And he showed me something in outfield play. He and Tommy Henrich are the last word in finesse, ability and smartness.

I went down to the batting cage before the game, the first time I had ever been there without a uniform. When I felt that strong wind blowing in from left field and saw the glare and the shadows caused by the sun, I figured there would be little hitting in the game.

Two starting pitchers allowed but two hits each, confirming my pre-game thoughts.

YANKS' ODDS SOAR

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Yankees' victory in the first game of the World Series sent their odds as favorites soaring to 2 to 9, betting commissioner James J. Carroll said last night. They were 11 to 20 Monday to win the series. Revised Brooklyn Dodgers' odds are 3½ to 1.

LITTLE FAN DIES

NEW YORK (AP)—"Gee, Joe, I'm the luckiest kid in the world," said 8-year-old Patty Ciccarelli when Joe DiMaggio walked into his hospital room.

That was three weeks ago. The Yankee star called on Patty because the little boy was dying of leukemia, fatal blood disease, although Patty didn't know it.

A radio store heard his story and installed a television set in the hospital room so the little boy could follow his idol, Big Joe, on the screen.

Yesterday was to have been Patty's big day—the World Series with Joe and the Yankees against the Dodgers.

But Patty died at 5 a. m.

Reveal Newfound Lake, N.H., As Remarkable Fishing Spot

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

"Remarkable fishing" is the word from New Hampshire's lovely Newfound Lake, in Bristol, in a survey of the past summer's sport. According to Conservation Officer Baker, he has personally checked more than 480 land-locked salmon, averaging better than four pounds apiece, which were taken from the lake by ardent anglers during June, July and August. This figure, of course, is only a small fraction of the actual take. Local guides agree that this has been the best single season since 1928.

"What is the reason of the improved angling in Newfound Lake?" many fisherman will ask . . . Careful conservation!

Yes, the excellent recovery is founded on wise and long-range conservation measures, which should insure permanent conditions that will continue to attract anglers. The lake has a vast expanse of water, over 100 feet in depth a natural spot for salmon. For several years, its two salmon spawning rivers, the Fowler and the Cockermouth, as well as the lake, were threatened by depletion of the smelt supply. Since smelt are the sole forage fish which will live in the same cold-water depths as salmon year-'round, and so furnish their necessary food for growth, this shortage was serious.

Taking action quite a few years ago, the State Fish and Game Dept. introduced smelt eggs or adult eggs each season, the quantities large enough to re-establish the run. A carefully-estimated stocking of two-year-old landlocks from the hatchery was balanced against this increasing food supply. In the meantime, plantings of lake trout were curtailed to stop excessive competition from holding back the smelt.

That this work has been successful is demonstrated by the fine fishing of this year, plus an excellent smelt run in the spring, while the rivers are teeming with young salmon. Thus, it would seem that similar fish problems could be solved in other lakes and ponds—particularly those in Massachusetts!

OUTDOOR O.O.'s: In last week's article on the deplorable conditions still existing in the Mass. Div. of Fisheries and Game, we didn't add that the new five-man advisory committee had also discovered that it is costing the State twice as much for feed for fish as is paid at the Federal Hatcheries, at Nashua, N. H. . . . This situation merits investigating at once . . . As a matter of fact, the entire Dept. of Conservation needs to be reorganized . . . And when the Marine Fisheries Division apprehends any seiners of striped bass, the culprits will be the FIRST to be caught by the division . . . More on this subject later.

LINCOLN POST IN OPENER

The Lincoln Legion Post eleven will open its football schedule on Sunday afternoon at Murray's Park in Brighton, when they face the West [illegible] Merchants.

Palladino Rates BC Starting Role on Clemson Showing

A neighbor of quarterback Ed Clasby in Natick, Bob Palladino, hard-running Boston College halfback, proved very effective against Clemson in the Eagles' opener. A 21-year-old sophomore, Palladino may have solved all doubt as to whom the starting right halfback will be for B. C. in future games.

During the practice sessions an intensive fight for the starting berth was waged among Palladino, Jim Benedetto of Swampscott and Maurice Poissant of Biddeford, Me.

Palladino was nominated as a starter in the opener and rewarded Coach Myers' selection by romping to several sizable gains. He was particularly effective on off-tackle smashes, bulling his way through for considerable yardage.

Poissant, who saw little service, was immense during his brief appearance. Once free of the line, the 175-pounder is a very difficult man to overhaul. He proved that against Clemson and, if allowed to see more action, may beat out Palladino and Benedetto.

Benedetto has been around a long time. He was on the '40 freshman squad with Gil Bouley, Angelo Sisti, Patsy Darone and Eddie Doherty. A member of the Orange Bowl eleven, he has picked up a great deal of grid trickery during his tenure at the Heights.

PLANS FOR WINTER

The second annual New England Winter Recreational Promotion Conference, sponsored by the N. E. Council, will be held in the Hawthorne Room of the Parker House, starting at 10:30 a. m., tomorrow. Harlow Drives Harvard Squad For B. U. Game

In preparation for the coming battle of local supremacy with Boston University, Harvard is undergoing a rugged week of practice sessions. Making sure that no overconfidence sets in after their 52-0 drubbing of Western Maryland, Harlow is keeping his boys hustling every minute of the workouts.

"A game like Saturday's tells you nothing about your team" was the mentor's remark while driving the squad.

With his assistants Margarita, Kopp, and Jacunski, Harlow scouted the Terrier tactics last Saturday night where he saw them walk all over Mohawk in a contest which resembled his own. He has had his freshmen running through B. U. plays against the varsity in hopes of stalling them come the weekend.

It now seems likely that Jim Kenary will see as much action in the quarterback slot as tailback. He played both positions with much finesse last week, showing that he could hand the ball off with the best of them.

The center berth is still wide open. With the fine job Chuck Glynn turned in this week's starter looks like a toss-up between him and Don Stone.

An interesting visitor to one of the practice workouts this week was Wayne Johnson, who is the only football player known to have won a letter at both Harvard and Yale. He did the first under Harlow in '42 and played with the Marine V-12 unit at Yale in '43.

Cold Blasts Dampen Ardor Of Series Bleacher Fans

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Bright sunlight and cold winds for the second game of the World Series caused a diminishing in the early bleacher crowd at Yankee Stadium today as the Brooklyn Dodgers sought a victory to match New York's opening day win, 5-3.

Manager Bucky Harris of the Yankees called on Allie Reynolds, an effective righthander. Manager Burt Shotton of the Dodgers again kept his pitching selection a mystery, although little, left-handed Vic Lombardi seemed the likely choice.

Where yesterday the bleachers were filled soon after the doors opened at 9 a. m., today only 5000 were on hand for the 13,800 seats available at $1.

Three thousand standing room tickets also remained unsold as city fans, apparently discouraged by yesterdays report of a record 73,365 jammed into the stadium, hung back.

Tomorrow the third game of the Series will be played across the river in the comparatively small Ebbets Field in Brooklyn where only 33,000 can be accommodated. As is the case in Yankee Stadium, all reserved seats have been sold.

The early arrivals at Yankee Stadium were dressed for the weather with heavy overcoats, mufflers, gloves and even ear muffs. Women wore fur or heavy coats, and blankets were much in evidence.

This morning was the coldest Oct. 1 in the history of New York weather bureau, with a low of 38 degrees, against a normal average of 62 for the date. Temperatures in the middle 50's are due by afternoon.

Yesterday's high wind appeared to be dying down. It swirled in the high, "U" shaped stadium so erratically that outfielders had to race back and forth uncertainly under flies that on a calm day would be easy outs.

"Dixie" Walker, veteran Brooklyn outfielder, said wind conditions were the worst he ever had seen, and "played the fool" with a high fly.

There was considerable bantering among the fans in the early morning lines. Yankee adherents were carefree, and Dodger followers were belligerent.

Yesterday's game was unusually subdued for a World Series contest, but tomorrow in Ebbets Field the real noise is expected to explode.

B. U. at Full Strength For Harvard Saturday

With Al Stewart and Zarv Alemain, regular and reserve guards, back in shape, Boston University will be at full strength when it engages Harvard in the stadium Saturday.

Both missed the one-sided opening victory over Mohawk, which served as Buff Donelli's B. U. coaching debut.

Leahy Worried Over Notre Dame's Failure To Click in Practice

By FRANK LEAHY

HEAD COACH OF NOTRE DAME UNIVERSITY

While waiting for the season's rough journey to begin against Pittsburgh Saturday on the Panthers' home grounds, this is a good time to let go with some random thoughts.

Here at Notre Dame the coaching staff has had cause for discouragement. The players haven't been practicing properly. They are not reacting as well as at this time last year. I don't know the reason. If I did I might do something about it.

It is true we have been plagued by innumerable minor injuries. But what coach hasn't? What worries me is that I have to gaze only a short distance in the past to see a parallel. When I was preparing the College All-Stars to face the Chicago Bears, word reached me that the pros were not reacting too well in practice skirmishes.

Since the odds remained five to one in favor of the Bears right up to game time, I shrugged off the reports. As the game progressed I realized that even as fine a psychologist as Coach Helas had been unable to bring his awesome crew out of the lethargy that hampered it in practice. Not that the All-Stars didn't play a great game to a man, but, at the same time, sharper practice on the part of the Bears might have made our 16-0 victory less certain.

As the season progresses watch for the T-formation to undergo daring variations and innovations. Just as in war, the defense always catches up to the offense. Then it is up to the offense to offer new tricks or be stopped both cold and permanently.

The T-formation evolved from the fundamental offense formation of single wing back, double wing back and punt formation. Now that constant use of the "T" has made it almost as well known to player and spectator alike, variations must be inaugurated. It is a problem that gives me constant concern.

If the "T" no longer gets you there "fustest with the mostest" then changes must be made. If any of you readers have sure-fire offensive tricks up your sleeve I'd be glad to get them. After all, it's the final score that goes into the record book.

Now I have a little parlor trick that will enable you radio fans listening to our game to put your favorite announcer squarely on the spot if he should become at all tongue-tied. Here's a handy pronunciation chart of some tricky Fighting Irish names to paste on your radio:

Budynkiewicz—Ba-dink-a-wits.
Ciechanowicz—Cha-can-o-wiss.
Cifelli—Sa-felly.
Czarobski—Sa-rob-ski.
Espenan—Es-pan-an.
Grothaus—Grote-house.
Kosikowski—Koz-a-kow-ski.
Lecluyse—La-cluse.
Lujack—Lew-jack.
Signaigo—Sig-knee-a-go.
Sinkovitz—Sink-o-vits.
Statuto—Sta-tu-toe.
Swistowicz—Swiss-toe-wiss.
Tripucka—Tra-pu-ka.
Wightkin—Wite-ken.
Yanoschik—Yano-shek.
Zmijewski—Zim-a-jew-ski.

But don't get me wrong. I am mighty proud of these names and of being privileged to come in contact with these boys—fine Americans all. The type of name that made our country the great nation it is. The type of name I used to see on the endless rows of white markers on Guam and Saipan and Tinian and Okinawa when I was in the Pacific.

We have plenty of good Irish names at Notre Dame too, despite the kidding we take from vaudeville comedians. Names like Connor and McGehee and Brennan. And plain old American names like Brown and Martin and Smith.

I don't want to start waving a flag or preaching, but when I see these various strains of nationalities battling each other tooth and nail on the practice field, asking no quarter and giving none, and then walking off the practice field arm in arm, it makes me feel good. Makes me feel an immense pride in this wonderful country of ours.

So when you read these names or hear them pouring out at you from the radio picture true democracy, caught in the colors of blue and gold, and I am sure you too will be proud, just as I am.

(Distributed by McNaught Synd., Inc.)

Leahy will have another football Column in Friday's American.

It's Now Up to B. U. Students and Alumni

By BILL GRIMES

Due to the fact that the World Series is "hogging" the sport pages, the general public isn't getting much advance information about Saturday's Harvard-B. U. game at the Stadium. There are over 27,000 students enrolled at B. U. and within the confines of Greater Boston reside approximately 20,000 alumni and alumnae.

Therefore, if there are any grounds for the report that B. U. has developed a new athletic spirit since Aldo "Buff" Donelli became the varsity football coach, the Terriers should have at the very least 30,000 ardent followers present when they trot into the Stadium.

For a decade the B. U. alumni and undergraduates have demanded that their alma mater go "big time." They called attention to the fact that B. U. wasn't capitalizing on its vast resources. They wanted a real football team, one which, within three or four years, could cope with the best in the country.

Although they were seriously considering going "big time," the B. U. authorities didn't come to a decision until Boston College deserted Fenway Park and returned to Braves Field.

Before he gets the Terriers into the national spotlight, Donelli has his work cut out for him. It would be unfair to Donelli to expect any worthwhile results for at least three years. And, in fairness to him, attention should be called to the fact that he has no intention of lowering the scholastic standing in order to produce a winning football team. Any athlete who cannot get passing marks in some one of the many colleges affiliated with B. U. could never master the Donelli type of football. They'd be liabilities, rather than assets.

Donelli has made many friends since coming here. He's a tireless worker and, we repeat, eventually he'll have a winner at B. U. In the meantime, he'll continue to make personal friends and friends for the university.

So it is strictly up to each and every B. U. undergrad and every member of the alumni living in these parts to be at the Harvard Stadium Saturday afternoon. It's their duty to show Donelli and his Terriers that the university is behind them.

Although I personally do not believe B. U. will best Harvard, I'll guarantee that the fans who go to the Stadium will see two exceptionally well coached squads.

Dudley Here Sunday With Detroit Team

Bullet Bill Dudley, voted the most valuable gridder in the National Football League, comes to town Sunday wearing the spangles of the Detroit Lions—the same Bill Dudley who put on the greatest one-man show seen at Fenway Park last year while a member of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Refusing to return to Pittsburgh because of the bruising single-wing attack featured by the Steelers, Dudley announced his retirement from the game last spring. The Lions, however, made one of the biggest trades in the history of the league for Dudley and then offered Bill a contract which ran better than $20,000 a year.

Ex-Boy Wonder Forgets to Be Calm

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—Bucky Harris is as calm a person as anybody in baseball, but even the "boy wonder" of Washington's '24 and '25 pennant winners whooped it up as he raced into the clubhouse after the Yanks 5-3 victory over the Dodgers in the opening game of the World Series. "You can't win four until you win one," he bellowed, grinning like a kid from ear to ear. The cast was as delirious as the manager. They shook hands all around—with Joe Page who had held the fort, with Joe DiMaggio who had started it all, with Johnny Lindell and Tom Henrich whose combined R. B. I. chased home four of the runs in the five-run fifth.

"Shea was pitching well," said Harris. "No, no arm trouble. I didn't like to lift him, but we had a chance for the big inning, so I went for it. He'll get his chance to go the route later."

Shea was dressed, sitting in his spacious locker. "Hey, Pete," he yelled to the clubhouse boy, "get me a ham sandwich, will you?" Shea munched on the sandwich while reporters told him he had been given credit for the victory. "A shallow victory," he commented. "Hope I get another crack at them." . . . "I was surprised Bucky yanked you for a pinch-hitter," said the reporter. "You're a good hitter" . . . and Shea was his wise-cracking self again. "Guess he couldn't have seen me hit in batting practice," he grinned, "almost had one in the bleachers." He's as proud of his hitting as Tex Hughson, and he doesn't hit much better. But, like Tex, he swings.

"We won looking bad," said Henrich whose two-run single was the clincher. "We'll do better from here in, so help me, I didn't see either of Branca's first two pitches that were called strikes. That background was horrible. So I went up on the bat a little with the 0-2 count, got a bead on the pitch and swung. No, I wasn't pulling for the right field stands (3 on). I was simply trying to get a piece of the ball" . . . The day was ideal at game time but as the innings wore on a wind whipped up that made the stadium look like a dust bowl . . . "Wind helped me on two pitches to Reese," Joe Page admitted, "actually pulled the ball in for strikes. It was cold on the mound. Couldn't get my fingers moist" . . . Ted Williams took in the game with his off-field manager Fred Corcoran. Wonder if the A. L. batting champion will have the Corcoran tie up. Joe McCarthy takes the reins next spring . . . Joe DiMaggio had to shed Joe Gould under McCarthy. Charlie Keller came up from his Maryland home, his back still in a brace, and dressed for the series. "Where could I get a better seat?" he asked. The home run hitter will be fortunate if he ever plays ball again.

Brooklyn players were confident they'd square the series behind Lombardi. "What are those guys crowing about?" they asked of the Yanks. "They got only four hits. We got six." But the runs pay off, and the Yanks still have enough of the McCarthy Yanks in them to take advantage of every little slip in the opposition . . . "Make one mistake against the Yanks and you're gone," the Red Sox used to say. Yanks of today aren't as good as the McCarthy Yanks but they seem to have enough to whip Brooklyn . . Series switches to Flatbush tomorrow with Bo-Bo Newsom scheduled to hurl against Joe Hatten . . . Few bright spots in the opening game . . . Good field plays by Reese and Stanky. However Dodgers got a bad break in the fourth. Walker led off with a single. Hermanski lined a drive toward left that looked like a double but Johnson speared it, and doubled Walker off first.

YANKS KAYO LOMBARDI IN FIFTH

By HUCK FINNEGAN

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 1 — Vic Lombardi, crafty Brooklyn southpaw, was Manager Burt Shotton's choice today to check the haughty Yankees in the second game of the World Series.

Lombardi is considered the Dodgers' No. 1 choice, now that the first game proved 21-game winner Ralph Branca couldn't handle the Yanks.

Lombardi won only 12 games for the National League champions, but most of these wins came during the last half of the season when the Brooks were fighting the Cards for the flag.

If he can't silence the bats of Lindell, DiMaggio, Henrich and Co. today the Yanks will be favored to end the series in six games or less. If he can win, however, he may prove to be the Harry Brechen of 1947.

Opposed to Lombardi on the mound was Allie Reynolds, Yanks' 19-game winner. The Greek Indian a former halfback of note at Oklahoma A. and M., has been most effective in the Stadium all season. He made 15 starts here and won 13 games. Thus only six of his 19 wins came on the road. Among Reynolds' triumphs were a pair of two-hit shutouts over the Red Sox.

Reynolds has Joe DiMaggio to thank for coming to the Yankees. At the 1946 World Series in Boston, MacPhail told DiMaggio he had the choice of either Red Embree or Reynolds in the Joe Gordon trade.

"Take Reynolds." DiMaggio advised. It was a wise selection because Embree had another poor season for the Indians.

The weather at game time today was ideal for baseball, sunny and cool. It was hoped it would remain that way because the wind whipped up in late innings yesterday and made a dust bowl of the Stadium.

So the Yanks and Dodgers teed off in the second game of the autumnal classic, the Yanks favored to win as they did 5-3 in the opener, because southpaw was working for Brooklyn, Bucky Harris made a shift in the Yankees lineup, lifting Lindell to the No. 3 position and putting the left-handed hitting Yogi Berra down lower.

Billy Johnson, who was hit on the hand by a Branca pitch yesterday, took his post at third base despite bruises which ice packs refused to reduce.

There was the same old crush on the field before gametime and once again photographers and newsmen were shooed off the field at 12:50. Guy Lombardo's band then took over, the fans who weren't humming began shuffling their feet.

There was the customary packed house of 73,000 today, and the Yankees eyed the throng admiringly. They are looking forward to a robust winner's share.

At 1:15 Al Schacht, clown prince of baseball, strolled to the mound in tails and silk hat and attempted to show the crowd how he would pitch to Johnny Mize, Hank Greenberg, Joe DiMaggio and Ralph Kiner.

Meanwhile Reynolds and Lombardi started their warm-ups, Reynolds wearing No. 22 on his broad back, Lombardi No. 18.

Because the Dodgers have only 10 pitchers, coach Clyde Sukeforth and utility infielder Stan Rojek threw them up to the hitters in batting practice.

Lombardi took his swats with the other batters as today's Brooklyn starter although Shotten still refused to confirm it.

Shotton, wearing a felt hat and blue Dodger jacket over his street clothes, remained in the dugout throughout the proceedings. He has yet to set foot on a ball field this season.

Winning Players Cut May Reach $7000

YANKEE STADIUM, N. Y., Oct. 1. (AP)—Clear, if chilly, weather favored the second game of the subway World Series today indicating another capacity turnout of some 73,000 fans would see if the New York Yankees could make it two in a row over the underdog Brooklyn Dodgers.

After yesterday's 5-3 Yankee success, engineered when Ralph Branca blew sky high in a five-run fifth inning after hurling no-hit ball for four perfect frames, the odd makers installed the American League champs as top heavy favorites. The price ran all way from 3 to 1 up to 4 to 1. They were quoted at 9 to 5 to make it two straight behind Allie Reynolds' pitching.

There was not much of a line waiting for the bleacher gates to open at 9 o'clock, but two hours later most of the 13,800 seats appeared to have been taken.

Any variations in the size of the crowd must come from the $1 seats and the $4 standing room tickets. It didn't appear likely that the all-time high of 73,365 at the opener would be matched but it couldn't be far off.

With the players sharing in the receipts of the first four games they were acutely aware of the cash pouring into the stadium till. The scene shifts to Brooklyn tomorrow and for the next three days if three are needed, where they have only about 34,000 seats.

Although neither club announced how it split the swag, all indications pointed to an all-time high winning individual cut of over $7000. The present high is $6544, received by each Detroit Tiger in the 1935 win over the Chicago Cubs.

In Reynolds the Yankees have their most consistent home winner. The husky Creek Indian from Oklahoma won 12 and lost but two at the stadium. His road record is a so-so 7-6 but he has been practically unbeatable in the Bronx.

Coming to the Yanks a year ago from Cleveland in the Joe Gordon deal, Allie turned out to be the top man on manager Bucky Harris' staff with his 19-8 won and lost mark. A sizzling fast ball and an inclination to throw shutouts are his assets. A tendency toward wildness and a habit of throwing home run balls are his chief liabilities.

With Maj. Francis Sutherland's 71st Regiment Band providing a musical background, the Yankees were out early for batting practice to find Charley Keller, their old outfield mate who was lost for the season after a June operation, throwing to the hitters. He was followed by Red Ruffing, the old Yank "stopper" who toiled for the Chicago White Sox this season after his release.
